YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS.

DUBLIN MAN'S RACEHORSES.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

In an action in which Robert Charles Ross, of Sion Hill, Drumcondra, Dublin, horse and cattle dealer, is the plaintiff, and Ronald Moss, of Faha House, Patrickswell, Limerick, farmer, is the defendant,

Mr. A. E. Wood, K.C., with whom was Mr. James Henry (instructed by Mr. S. G. Rutherford), moved ex parte on behalf of the plaintiff for an interim injunction to restrain the defendant, his servants or agents, from selling or attempting to sell, or otherwise dispose of or part with, all or any of the plaintiff's horses. Counsel said that the action was for an account of all moneys paid to the defendant by the plaintiff in respect of the keep and training of racehorses entrusted to the defendant as agent or trainer and of expenses incurred in respect of the racing of the horses from the 10th January, 1923, till the 30th April, 1926, and other matters.

The plaintiff, said Mr. Wood, was a racehorse owner, and one of his horses was a rather famous one—Ballymacrory—that ran recently in the Grand National. The defendant had for a number of years been training the plaintiff's horses, and recently the plaintiff, in consequence of a letter he received, went down and took seven horses out of the stables. They were overtaken on the road by the defendant's father-in-law, and the horses were released. The defendant had threatened to sell the horses, and his solicitor had written to the plaintiff to say that, if the sum was insufficient to discharge his liability, he was instructed to sue him for any balance.

Mr. Wood moved on the affidavit of the plaintiff, which gave details of the horses which he stated he had placed with the defendant for training for races, and set out that the horses Carrif, Reformation, and Say, which were amongst the number, had been transferred by him to his wife, the fact of the transfers and registrations being communicated by him to the defendant. The plaintiff met the defendant from time to time within the past month, and informed him that, if he would furnish a complete and detailed account, he would "square up" with him. On the 29th of last month he went to the defendant's place to see the horses, and had a conversation with him during dinner, which they had together. As far as he knew he parted with the defendant on the most friendly terms, and, to his surprise, on the 30th April he received a letter from the defendant's solicitor stating that he was instructed by Mr. Moss to apply for payment of £6,734 12s., balance due for the training and keep of his several horses, and that, failing payment within four days, Mr. Moss would sell by auction each horse for the sum due for his training, keep, etc.; and, in the event of the same being insufficient to discharge the plaintiff's liability, the solicitor was instructed to sue him for any balance that might remain due.

This letter, continued the plaintiff in his affidavit, contained the first demand for payment of the account, and he had not received at any time up to this date a detailed statement from the defendant of the moneys that the defendant alleged he owed him. From the account subsequently furnished the defendant demanded £6,040 for the keep of several horses, the balance of the £6,734 12s. being made up of alleged expenses. The sum of £6,040 represented a charge of £6 per week for each horse, and the plaintiff said that a reasonable charge, taking one horse with another, would be £2 5s. per week, making a total sum for keep and training of £4,530. The plaintiff said that he had paid or lent to the defendant from time to time sums amounting in all to over £7,000, and at his request he backed a large number of horses for him since January, 1923, and that while the defendant had been paid the winnings, he had not paid the plaintiff in those cases where the horses lost.

The affidavit, referring further to the letter received from the defendant's solicitor, continued:—"Having received above letter under the said circumstances, containing a threat to sell the horses by auction, I visited at "Faha," the defendant's residence, on Saturday, 1st May. The defendant was not there, but his yardman, Daly, who knew me well, was in charge. I arrived at the stables about 2 o'clock, and I told Daly that I had come to take away seven horses, leaving five. Daly asked would they be away long, and I replied that they would be away for a while, anyway. Daly made no objection to my taking the horses, and I went round the stables and took out seven horses. I was accompanied by Mr. Charles Hamilton and seven others, all from Dublin. My wife had requested me to remove her horses from the defendant's stables. I removed her three horses — 'Cariff,' 'Reformation' and 'Say,' and 'Some Toff,' 'Shannon Jug,' 'Righting' and 'Grace Park,' my own horses. Five of my horses I left with the defendant, and they were value for at least £1,500. I own these nine horses, and a number of other valuable horses, including 'Ballymacrory,' which I have in England, and the defendant was well aware of this."

"The men who were with me, at my request, took charge of the horses, and when we were about three and a half miles from Faha, on the road to Limerick, we were overtaken by Mr. John J. Manning, who is defendant's father-in-law, and from whom I had purchased 'Ballymacrory.' Mr. Manning was accompanied by his two sons, Thomas and Jeremiah, both over 21 years of age. The Mannings were in a motor car. They drove past the first couple of horses, and stopped, and called to the men in charge of the horses to let them go. Mr. Manning, senior, then got out of the motor car, and with the starting handle of the car in his hand, he struck the horse, 'Righting,' on the head, and also the men in charge of it. The animal was worth at least £500. He then rushed at 'Shannon Jug,' also a valuable horse, worth at least £500, and both Mr. Manning and his son, Tom, struck the horse, and Tom, who was armed with an ash-plant, struck my man on the head and injured him severely. One of the sons attacked me while I was standing beside my car on the road. He struck me with a stone. I was defenceless owing to the state of my arm. I was injured in the left eye. All the other men in charge of the horses were similarly rushed at by the Mannings, with the result that six of the horses broke loose, and are probably injured. When the horses broke loose the Mannings got into their car and left. The seventh horse, 'Say,' valued for about £200, was left on the road by the Mannings, and was driven in by me and my men, and placed in livery at Mr. Fitt's, in Limerick."

On Monday, 3rd May, the plaintiff stated that he received a telegram from Mr. Fitt—"Stable broken into last night, and your horse taken away. Writing." In a confirming letter Mr. Fitt wrote—"Last evening three men came into the repository between 7 and 8 o'clock, broke off the lock of the stable in which the horse you left with me on livery was, and took away the horse by force. I may state that a similar attempt was made in the course of the day, and resisted, and the Civic Guard were brought on the scene, and they prevented the horse being taken away. In addition to the men who came into the repository, I understand there were others outside the gate to give the necessary assistance, if same was required."

The affidavit then detailed correspondence that had passed between the solicitors for the plaintiff and defendant, and stated that it was clear that the defendant was determined to sell the horses for an alleged debt that the plaintiff did not owe him. If a sale did take place under such circumstances, it would inevitably result in greatly depreciated prices being obtained for the horses, which he estimated to be value for at least £4,000 or £5,000.

Mr. Wood made a similar application on behalf of Mrs. Lilian Ross, wife of the plaintiff, and said that he had to bring two separate actions, as this was not a partnership between husband and wife. There was a similar affidavit sworn by Mrs. Ross.

Mr. Justice Johnston granted the interim injunction applied for, to remain in existence until Tuesday next, and reserved the question of costs. He also gave the plaintiff liberty to serve the notice by telegram, in the first instance, and to serve it on an adult person at the defendant's address in Limerick.

IMPORTANT INCOME TAX CASE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN, MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

The hearing concluded of the case of Donovan (appellant), Crofts (respondent), and the appeal of the Inland Revenue Commissioners was dismissed, with costs.

The case came before the Court on a case stated by Mr. Rosenthal, K.C., Deputy Circuit Court Judge, Cork, who held that the appellant, T. Donovan, Inspector of Taxes, was not entitled to recover the amount of an assessment made on Christopher G. Crofts, farmer, of Velvetstown, Charleville, Co. Cork, in respect of British dividends amounting to £1,500, the property of his wife, on the ground that the latter was not "a married woman living with her husband" within the meaning of Rule 16 of the Schedules of the Income Tax Act, 1918.

According to the "case stated," while Mr. and Mrs. Crofts were not "separated," it was verbally agreed between them prior to their marriage, in November, 1922, that after the marriage they would continue to live apart, and after the marriage the agreement was repeated and carried out, Mr. Crofts residing on his own farm, and Mrs. Crofts residing with her sister on her own farm at Churchtown, four miles away from Mr. Crofts' residence. There was no "common establishment" between them.

Mr. Justice Sullivan, giving judgment, said that he respectfully agreed with Judge Rosenthal, who drew the inference on the facts that Mrs. Crofts was not a married woman living with her husband within the meaning of the Income Tax Act rule mentioned, and the appeal of the Inland Revenue Commissioners was dismissed, with costs.

Mr. Justice Hanna and Mr. Justice O'Byrne concurred.

The appeal was accordingly dismissed, with costs.

Mr. McCann, K.C.; Mr. Bewley, K.C., and Mr. Lavery (instructed by Mr. Collins) appeared for appellant; and Mr. Binchy (instructed by Messrs. J. Binchy and Son) for the respondent.

ARTIFICIAL SILK HOSIERY.

ENGLISH COMPANY'S ACTION.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

In the case of the Klenger Manufacturing Company, Ltd., of Silver street, Edmonton, Middlesex, England, against Guiney and Company, drapers, of 79 Talbot street, Dublin, an application was made on behalf of the plaintiffs for an interlocutory injunction, pending the trial of the action, restraining the defendants, their servants and agents from advertising, offering or exposing for sale, or selling, as and for the plaintiffs' "Three Queens" brand of artificial silk hosiery, the plaintiffs' cheaper and inferior hosiery known as "Selected Seconds"; from representing or passing off as the plaintiffs' "Three Queens" hosiery any hosiery not being the "Three Queens" hosiery manufactured by the plaintiffs; and from representing or passing off the plaintiffs' artificial silk hosiery as silk.

It appeared from an affidavit that the defendants had advertised in Dublin newspapers, and also in their shop window, the sale of some 500 dozen of stockings at 2s. 6d. which were sold everywhere at 4s. 11d. For the plaintiffs it was stated that their wholesale price of the brand mentioned would be 2s. 10½d., and the retail price would be 3s. 11d. (in England).

In an affidavit the defendant, Mr. Guiney, stated that, in giving instructions to the advertising agents' representative with reference to the advertisement of the hosiery for sale in his shop, 79 Talbot street, the words "Selected Seconds" were omitted by him through inadvertence, and on receipt of a letter from the plaintiffs, dated 14th April last, he then noticed the absence of the designation, "Selected Seconds," and immediately communicated with the gentleman who received the instructions, with the view of having the advertisements corrected. The advertisements were corrected, and on the 21st April the advertisements were discontinued.

On behalf of the defendants it was admitted that they sold "Selected Seconds" and nothing else in the way of artificial silk hosiery, and it was submitted that there was no ground for an injunction.

Mr. Justice Meredith, while exonerating the defendants from any dishonesty in connection with the matter, said that he was of opinion that the plaintiffs were entitled to the injunction they claimed. He granted the injunction sought accordingly, with costs.

Mr. Denning, K.C., and Mr. Newett (instructed by Messrs. Crawford and Lockhart) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. M. Maguire, K.C., and Mr. Edward Burke (instructed by Messrs. L. Burke and Co.) for the defendants.

ANGLO-IRISH TROUBLE RECALLED.

EX-GENERAL OF FREE STATE ARMY SUED.

At Dunshaughlin monthly District Sessions Mr. Patrick Moore, of Portmanna, Clones, a member of the Meath County Council, sued Mr. Sean Boylan, Dunboyne, an ex-General of the National Army, for £25, made up of £4 15s. for bedclothes, £6 for overcoat, £5 15s for maintenance during years 1919 and 1920, and the balance for ploughing and sowing the defendant's land at Edenmore, Dunboyne.

There were lively exchanges during the hearing of the case.

Justice Reddin, giving his decision, said that the Court could not accept the statement of ex-General Boylan, that the ploughing was done on his land against his wishes; he was satisfied as to the items for ploughing. As to maintenance, the Justice said that he was a poor Irishman who would sue for the cost of keeping a man who was "on the run." General Boylan, however, had admitted that he was entitled to a fifth of this farm. He gave a decree for £11 5s., and allowed 15s. costs.

ISSUE OF DUBLIN HOUSING STOCK.

At their meeting on Saturday next a motion will come before the City Commissioners to authorise the issue, at 95 per cent., of £100,000 of Dublin Corporation 5 per cent. Redeemable Stock, in connection with the Marino housing scheme and the Croydon Park extension.

FREE STATE RENTS BILL.

PROPOSAL THAT CONTROL SHALL CEASE IN 1929.

INCREASE OF 10 PER CENT.

The Rent Restriction Bill received a second reading yesterday in Dail Eireann.

The Government proposes that the control of rents shall cease in June, 1929. Up to June, 1927, houses with a valuation of £52 in Dublin, and £35 elsewhere, will be controlled. For the year ending June, 1928, the figures will be £40 and £30, respectively, and for the third year £30 and £26.

Landlords will be empowered to increase rents by another 10 per cent., making a total increase of 20 per cent. on the standard rents.

JUNE, 1929.

DATE WHEN CONTROL WILL END.

President Cosgrave, moving the second reading of the Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Bill, said that the original Act of 1920, and the subsequent Act of 1923, became necessary because of the shortage of houses, caused by the stopping of building during the war. The present bill indicated more strongly than its predecessors that control must ultimately cease.

Section 4 of the bill prescribed that up to June, 1927, houses the valuation of which was not greater than £52 in the Dublin Metropolitan area and £35 elsewhere would be controlled. Up to June, 1928, the corresponding figures would be £40 and £30, respectively, and up to June, 1929, £30 and £26, respectively. For the average tenant control would exist up to 1929, because by far the larger number of tenants occupied houses of the last-named valuations. Those who occupied houses of higher valuation would feel less any increase of rent which might be imposed on account of not having the restrictions continued.

INCREASE 'N RENT.

The present addition of 10 per cent. to the standard rent would be raised to 20 per cent. The increase in rent had not compared at all with the increase in the cost of living, and persons who derived their incomes from that particular source must have been very severely hit by the limitations of the increase in the Acts.

Further sections proposed to rectify the law in respect of technicalities which had been used against house-owners, and would deal with the point covered by a decision in the case of Smith v. Christy, in which the landlord and tenant had agreed as to the rent; but it was held that the increased rent was not valid unless notice of the increase was served by the landlord on the tenant. Section 6 proposed to validate increases made in such circumstances, and it was not retroactive.

Some other technicality was that an increase could not be enforced unless a notice to quit had been served, and Section 7 proposed that people could not avail themselves of that technicality to achieve what most people would regard as unfair and unreasonable.

They should assume that within the next few years the provision of houses would render the situation less difficult in 1929, when the Legislature would again consider the matter.

REASONS WANTED.

Mr. T. Johnson said that rent restriction would be needed long after 1929, unless a very great increase took place in the number of houses built. He would like to know the change that had taken place in the situation regarding the supply and demand of houses and the information which justified the modifications of the present law.

In Dublin City and its environs there were considerable numbers of people living in houses beyond their means, because they could not obtain cheaper houses. If the pressure continued those people would be severely penalised after 1927. So far as he could observe there were not many houses being built at present to meet that particular kind of demand.

Apart from the future and the assured increase in the cost of living that would come upon the people in 1927, they had an immediate increase of 10 per cent. on the standard rent. He thought that landlords should be compelled to give tenants the benefit of reduction in the rates.

BAR TO ENTERPRISE.

Mr. William Hewat said that the Bill outlined some relief in directions where relief was required. The effect of the previous Rent Restriction Act was to relieve a vast number of people; but it had, at the same time, produced a very grave sense of injustice and inflicted great injustice on a great many people.

One result of the Rent Restriction Act was that it had destroyed altogether any incentive to cheap building as an investment, and had created a situation when no man of any sense would put his money into house-building. The Act had established the principle of absolute confiscation, whereby a man lost control over his own property, and it had raised a state of affairs that had been neither good for the building or housing problem, nor for the morals of the people.

He thought that the Bill was legislation in the right direction; and, unlike Deputy Johnson, he would like to visualise the year 1929 as a time when the need for that sort of legislation would have passed, and that in the interval it would be recognised that the building of houses must be put on an economic basis, so that the industry could be carried on as in past years.

Major Bryan Cooper said that the rates should be, in future, charged upon the tenant and not on the landlord. At present too many people's rates were included in their rent. He referred to the fact that there had been an increase in the cost of living in regard to everything except rent. He did not see why the landlord should be singled out, while the baker, bootmaker, or provision merchant had been free to increase their prices.

One great omission in the Bill was that it failed altogether to deal with the case of sub-tenants. The Rent Restriction Act had created a privileged class of head tenants who had sub-let part of their houses. He had heard of one case where a tenant, who paid £1 a week for a house, was getting 18s. a week for two rooms.

There was no doubt that there was a substantial grievance on the part of the landlord, who saw a tenant who had acquired a certain rent under the Act taking advantage of the position so established—he was going to say to profiteer; but, at least, to take advantage of the shortage of housing to sub-let portion of his holding at rents out of all proportion to what he was paying the landlord. He urged the Government to look into into the matter before the Committee stage.

PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

President Cosgrave said that if it were possible to build houses that could be let at an economic rent, there would be no necessity for the measure. Even the subsidy left the tenant in the position of having to pay twice the pre-war price. No amount of condemnation of the bill would alter that position.

The case that had been mentioned by Deputy Cooper was difficult to cover. Agreeing that it was a real case of grievance, he said that probably it was not possible for any landlord to profiteer to the extent as which certain tenants were profiteering. (Hear, hear.) The unfortunate people who had no house were being blackmailed by the cost of getting a house now. That cost had been reduced in the past three or four years. In a certain type of house it had come down from £750 to £600. There was room for further reduction. The question could only be settled by "a great big help" from everybody. The Government had been charged in a section of the Press with not having solved the housing problem; but he wondered whether the gentleman who wrote that had anything in mind to solve the problem.

Another grievance of landlords not mentioned by Deputy Cooper occurred when a tenant seeking to purchase his house got a bargain from the landlord, and then immediately left the house and sold it for £100 or £200 above what he had paid. He had heard of a case that day where a man had got a profit of £200 within a fortnight in those circumstances.

The second reading was agreed to, and the Committee stage fixed for next Tuesday.

SHOP HOURS.

Mr. P. S. Doyle moved that the fifth stage of the Shop Hours (Drapery Trade, Dublin and District) Bill be passed.

Mr. Johnson objected, and said that legislation passed last year should not be entirely abrogated, and that opportunity should be given for peaceful development of shop hours. Instead they were going to challenge an industrial fight on the matter.

On a division, the Fifth Stage was carried by 21 votes to 16, and the bill was passed and sent to the Senate.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

On the Committee stage of the Unemployment Insurance Bill, Mr. William Norton (Labour) moved the deletion of Section 2, which lays down the conditions under which contributions shall be refunded to insured persons.

He pointed out that under the original Act many people were paying unemployment insurance who might be placed in the category of semi-permanents. Those people were encouraged to pay insurance by the inducement that when they reached the age of 60 they would receive a refund of their contributions, less whatever had been paid them in benefits, with 2½ per cent. compound interest. It was a good thing to encourage that class who were not liable to be a frequent liability, as it meant that their contributions would help to maintain the solvency of the funds.

Under the proposed new clause men were asked to take now at the age of 50 whatever stood to their credit, and, following on the industrial depression of the last couple of years, in a great many cases there was nothing standing to credit. He suggested that this was not an appropriate time to introduce this amending bill.

Mr. P. McGilligan (Minister for Industry and Commerce) said that the new Section 14 was the financial basis of the bill. If that section were not passed, it meant that, under the operation of the old Acts, the Fund would be depleted after five years' time and would continue to be depleted by £50,000 a year. Deletion of the section would mean that the more or less non-permanent employés would have to pay higher rates of insurance if the Fund were to be kept solvent.

Mr. Johnson, supporting the amendment, admitted that there was a strong case for consideration of the whole system of insurance. They had, however, to face the every-day fact that some employers and employés were evading the payment of insurance. The retention of the provision in the original Act would offer an inducement to employés to see that their contributions were paid.

Mr. McGilligan said that if they did not take away this provision it would mean the alternative increased contributions, and he thought it would be in favour of the worker to have it removed.

The section was retained by 42 votes to 12.

The remaining sections were retained without challenge, and the Committee stage was concluded.

RAILWAYS BILL.

The Committee stage of the Railways (Existing Officers and Servants) Bill, 1926, was next considered.

Mr. Davin moved the deletion of the words "within seven years after the passing of the principal Act and "—from Sub-section 1. This section provides for the payment of gratuities to officers and servants of the amalgamated company if their services are dispensed with within seven years after the passing of the principal Act on account of absorption or amalgamation, but not due to decrease of traffic or other economic cause.

Mr. Davin contended that the section as it stood made it impossible for any claim for compensation to succeed. He could not contemplate the company keeping on, as they were doing at present, a large number of the redundant staff, and paying them until July, 1931; but he could imagine that it would be good policy on their part to do so, assuming that certain wording of the section was allowed to remain in the bill. In the British Act no time limit was laid down so far as that matter was concerned.

Irish railwaymen were exempt from employment insurance by agreement, as they were considered more or less permanent employés, and if the bill passed in its present form, and the company decided to retain those redundant employés until July, 1931, the man would get neither compensation nor insurance benefit, though they became redundant as a result of amalgamation. With regard to the superannuation fund, the company could not bring forward a scheme that would be sound unless they knew the number of their employés. He would like to know the reasons put forward by the railway company for the bill.

NOT COMPANY'S CONCERN.

Mr. McGilligan, replying, said that the railway company did not mention the bill to him, and they had as much and as little to do with it as the railway employés. If there was a reasonable case for compensation it ought to be dealt with in three years, and they allowed seven in order to have finality.

As to the superannuation fund scheme, in three years it would be fairly clear what the permanent staff would number. That scheme would be brought forward for discussion.

As regards unemployment benefit, before the amalgamation the railway worker was accepted as a permanent employé, and whatever permanency he had before amalgamation he would have after it.

Mr. Johnson said that it would be cheaper for the company to keep on redundant men for seven years and then dismiss them without any obligation to pay compensation. That was really a temptation to the company.

Mr. Davin said that he knew a number of redundant officials who were walking about at Kingsbridge and other dépôts, and they were being kept there for the passing of this bill. He cited one case of an official, thirty-five years of age, with a salary of £350. Under the original Act he would be entitled to a pension of £175. If the clause under discussion were passed it would be good policy to pay that man his salary of £350 for the next five years, and then dismiss him without compensation, rather than dismiss him now, when he would get a pension of £175, which he might draw for twenty years or more.

On a division, the amendment was defeated by 48 votes to 16.

THE RIGHT TO COMPENSATION.

Mr. P. S. Doyle proposed an amendment to Sub-Section (1), so as to entitle to compensation railway servants dispensed with on account of or by reason of the amalgamation or absorption of companies affected by or under the principal Act. That formula he proposed to substitute for the qualified wording of the sub-section as introduced.

Mr. McGilligan said that the words in the section excluded from the right to compensation persons who became redundant because of (1) traffic decrease; (2) reduction in renewal or maintenance work (3) the introduction of improved methods of working, and (4) other economic causes. He asked whether it was seriously proposed that a person who had been displaced by any one of these causes should be compensated.

Mr. Johnson said that this section was practically the repeal of the original Act, which ensured that men to be dismissed as a result of the amalgamation would get compensation. The railway company could put any one of these four causes, and it would be impossible to ascertain the exact cause of dismissal.

Mr. Davin said that the section as it stood meant the confiscation of the rights of railway workers under the principal Act. Mr. Doyle's amendment was a slight improvement on the section; but he thought that the conditions mentioned by the Minister should be eliminated, and the matter left to the discretion of the arbitrator.

Major Cooper asked if directors who had become redundant had been compensated, and, if so, what reason could be given why similar compensation should not be given to the workers.

NO STEREOTYPED NUMBER.

Mr. McGilligan denied that the original Act intended that the number of railway servants should be stereotyped, and that every reduction below that number involved a right to compensation. If that was what was meant by confiscation, he was out to repeal any Act which deprived the amalgamated company of rights which the associated elements of the company had enjoyed before the amalgamation, to dismiss servants not required because of decreased traffic or improved methods of working. There never was any intention so to stereotype the number of servants that any reduction in their number should be accompanied by a claim for compensation.

The Minister pointed out that the onus was thrown on the railway company to prove that dismissal was not due to amalgamation, and in the residue of the cases that would be in favour of the workers. Unless the company established its case, the applicant would have the benefit.

After further discussion the amendment was defeated by 45 votes to 17.

"DIRECTLY."

Mr. P. S. Doyle next moved to delete from the phrase limiting compensation to cases "directly and solely due" to amalgamation, the words "directly and solely." As the Minister himself had promised to delete the words "and solely" discussion turned on the retention of the word "directly."

The Minister said that the word was necessary. He did not see why railway users should be called upon to pay higher rates because the railway company had to compensate a man whose dismissal was not directly due to amalgamation.

Mr. Johnson said that the company could so arrange things that dismissal should not appear directly due to amalgamation.

Mr. Davin developed the same point.

Mr. Hewat said that he was inclined to agree that, as a result of the clause under discussion, a state of affairs might be found to exist in a very short time which the Dail did not contemplate in passing the Act, and that injustice might be done to men who were entitled to compensation under the original Act. He feared the amending bill was going to raise further contention that would not be in the interests of the men, the company, or the country.

Mr. McGilligan replied that he did not want to have any unfairness occurring, and if there was any feeling in the Dail that the retention of the word "directly" was going to operate unduly against the employé—having regard at the same time to the interest of the railway user—it could be dropped. He held, however, that that case had not been made.

On a division the amendment was lost by 35 to 20, and the House adjourned at 10.30 to 5 o'clock to-day.

THE SENATE.

CORONERS BILL TO BE TREATED AS NEW MEASURE.

In the Senate yesterday, the second stage of the Damage to Property (Compensation) (Amendment) Bill was passed without discussion.

On the resumption of the Committee stage of the Enforcement of Court Orders Bill, Senator Brown, K.C., moved an amendment which, he said, would meet objections raised at the last sitting when Senators had expressed the opinion that the use of the word "residence" in Section 13 would make it possible for the Sheriff to seize the goods of a father for debts contracted by his son, although the latter might merely reside with him and have no authority from the father to contract such debts. He moved the substitution of the words: "the house or tenement of which the debtor is occupier either alone or jointly with another or others," for the words "house or other place of residence."

The section thus amended, it was explained, would deprive the Sheriff of the power which it was feared the section as originally worded would give him. The amendment was accepted.

A motion by Sir Nugent Everard for the suspension of Standing Orders to enable the remaining stages of the Bill to be taken was then passed.

In the further consideration of The Enforcement of Court Orders Bill, 1926, on report, Senator Linehan moved an amendment to Section 13 limiting the Sheriff's power of seizure, by the insertion of the words "unless a declaration sworn before a District Justice or Peace Commissioner by the husband or wife, or parent, or child of the debtor, shall have been served on the Sub-Sheriff within three days, claiming ownership of the said goods, animals or chattels." He said that the fear of a prosecution for perjury would prevent persons from making a false declaration.

Senator O'Farrell seconded the amendment. He said that he was not satisfied that Senator Brown's amendment met the case.

The Minister for Finance said that he could not accept Senator Linehan's amendment, which might lead to fraudulent claims being made. He did not know if anybody was deterred in this country from making a false declaration for fear of a prosecution for perjury.

The amendment was rejected by 33 votes to 11. The bill passed through all its stages.

The Report stage of the School Attendance Bill was passed.

On the report stage of the Coroners Bill, the Chairman said that this was the first important and serious piece of legislation that the Senate had so far carried through. The bill, however, had been amended out of all recognition. Originally a bill of one clause, it was now a comprehensive and important measure. He suggested that, as it was their first important piece of legislation, they should allow it to be, introduced de novo, so that they could consider it in Committee.

They had had on the Select Committee the assistance of Mr. Horgan, representing the Coroners' Association, who gave them valuable help. It was all the more valuable because it was manifestly given in the interests of the community as a whole.

On the motion of Senator Brown, leave was given to re-introduce the measure as a new bill.

The House adjourned until Wednesday, May 26th.

Our Listowel Correspondent states that Sergeant Flynn, accompanied by two other members of the Civic Guard, searched a gate lodge occupied by Mrs. Dunne and her two sons and seized a quantity of arms and ammunition. The find included a fully-loaded Lee-Enfield rifle, a double-barrelled shot gun, 60 rounds of .303 ammunition, six rounds of miniature rifle ammunition, two rounds of .45 revolver ammunition and five empty cases, 32 live shot gun cartridges, 267 empty cartridges for shot guns, a bandolier, 13 rifle clips, and 10 empty bullet cases. John Dunne has been arrested and remanded in connection with the find.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

DRUNK AT THE WHEEL.

ROAD ACCIDENT: MOTORIST FINED.

The clergyman of his church having spoken highly of his character, Edward J. Murphy, of Philomena road, who admitted having been drunk in charge of a motor car, whereby he knocked down a girl cyclist, Margaret Hall, 3 Lower Dominick street, carried her along on the mudguard of his car for forty yards and damaged her bicycle, was allowed off with a fine of £4 on the understanding that he would pay £6 10s. compensation for the damage to the girl's bicycle.

APPEAL FOR OLD DUBLIN CHARITY.

An appeal to the whole of Ireland for funds was made yesterday by Mr. L. J. O'Neill at the annual meeting of the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society, which assists broken-down tradesmen out of employment, widows, and others reduced to poverty through illness. He said that the work is done without political or religious bigotry for the poor who drifted into Dublin.

The Rev. Canon Thompson said that many people spent money on luxuries and betting that would be better given in charity.

Sir Joseph A. Glynn said that the poor gave in charity in excess of their means, and they were appealing to the well-to-do and the fairly well-to-do.

Canon Monaghan said that if they had fewer strikes and more industry there would be less want. Those responsible for the calling of strikes should be very cautious before downing tools.

Messrs. Craig, Gardner and Co. were re-elected auditors.

THE LATE MR. THOMAS OLIVER.

The burial took place in Glasnevin Cemetery, yesterday, of Mr. Thomas Oliver, who for over 50 years was known to every seller in the Dublin Cattle Market. Admittedly one of the best judges of fat stock, his services were in keen request at agricultural shows. He was well known in the London as in the Dublin markets, and in recent years he was virtually the only Irish representative there. His knowledge of the live weight of animals was almost uncanny; rarely was he more than 28lb. out in his calculation. His shipments of fat stock from Dublin ran into many thousands per annum. Mr. Oliver, who died at his residence, in Aughrim street, Dublin, on last Monday, was approaching his eightieth year.

DUBLIN UNION MANAGEMENT.

REVELATIONS IN THE AUDITOR'S REPORT.

OFFICIALS ASKED TO RESIGN.

REPLIES BY CLERK AND MASTER.

Serious reflections on the management of the Dublin Union are to be found in the abstracts of accounts for the six half-years ended March 31st, 1925, which were submitted by the Local Government Department to the Dublin Union Commissioners yesterday, together with the Auditor's report.

The Commissioners, in a memorandum, state that they have decided to call on the Clerk (Mr. Condon), the Master (Mr. Doyle), the Storekeeper (Mr. Murphy), and the Master's Chief Clerk (Mr. Williams) to resign.

THE CHECKING OF BOOKS

HUNDREDS OF ERRORS.

Mr. A. C. Ellis, auditor, stated in his report that several errors were discovered in the audit of the relieving officer's books, which were not detected in the Clerk's office, where the books were checked. The daily provision issue book had not been checked by the Clerk for twelve months. The checking of the books had been taken in hand and an errata prepared, showing hundreds of errors. Bread showed a deficiency of 12,382lbs., and potatoes a deficiency of 72,230lbs. The Master and the storekeeper were charged by the auditor with the sum of £436 1s 6d., being the value of clothing materials unaccounted for.

In one case the balance carried forward in the relief receipts and expenditure book for September, 1923, was entered as £100 less than the true balance.

In November, 1925, the audit had to be adjourned, as several of the Master's books had not been written up-to-date, and these that had been written had not been checked for a considerable time. The books he found to be virtually worthless as an accurate record. The explanation given by the Master for the deficiency of 12,382lbs. of bread was that, although 20,156lbs. were issued to casuals, the books showed only 6,924lbs. as the bread was given out of the Stores, as the bread was given out of the stores without the usual dockets. Potatoes showed a deficiency of 72,230lbs. The Master produced a statement showing that 73,776lbs. were consumed in excess of the amounts entered in the issue book. He had accepted the Master's statement for these two deficiencies, but had charged him and the storekeeper jointly with the sum of £54 3s. 9d., being the value of other deficiencies. Large surpluses were found in other commodities, such as beef, salt, vegetables, etc., which could not appear if the books were properly kept.

CLOTHING MATERIALS.

In connection with the deficiencies of clothing materials to the value of £436 1s. 6d., explanations were made that supplies were issued from stores for which no credit was given in the books. The storekeeper had not even an elementary knowledge of the duties of his responsible office. The Master had no knowledge of the manner in which the subordinate officers were accounting for the stores. It was only fair to state that for the period to January, 1924, the services of an efficient Assistant Master were available, and he assumed complete responsibility for the accuracy of the books and records. This officer died in January, 1924, and the duties were assigned to several irresponsible and inefficient officials, who apparently could not be relied on to perform these duties in a satisfactory way.

In the Clerk's postage account presented for audit four items of £2 each were omitted from the account of sums received. Two officials were engaged in keeping the postage account and the Clerk was not in a position to state which of these two actually received the cash.

The National Health and Unemployment Insurance stamp books showed a sum of £11 0s. 11d. unaccounted for. The Commissioners retained the salaries of the two officials in satisfaction of the deficiency, and transferred them to another department.

SALARIES AND OVERTIME.

During the year ended March 31st, 1925, the salaries, wages and overtime paid by the Commissioners amounted to £65,547. He (the auditor) was satisfied that value was not received for this large expenditure. In the Clerk's department the staff employed in checking the books of other departments did not exercise vigilance or intelligence, the checking being of a perfunctory nature.

As the Commissioners had been in office during the last two of the six half-years under audit he drew attention to the economies effected by them during that period.

THE CLERK'S REPLY

In his reply to the auditor's report Mr. J. P. Condon (Clerk) said that only one clear day was allowed for the checking of the books of the sixteen relieving officers. As there was an average of 4,500 cases on the books, each represented by a separate entry, it would be physically impossible for him to examine each item. With regard to the error of £100 found by him in the books of Relieving Officer Cooke he immediately called upon him by letter to lodge the amount, which was accordingly done. The books of this relieving officer were checked by Mr. J. F. O'Toole and certified by him as correct.

In reference to insurance stamps and postage account, he stated that it was the invariable practice for his assistant, Mr. Heffernan, to make out the paying order as required in favour of the Clerk of the Union. Having endorsed same, he (Mr. Condon) handed it to Mr. Heffernan to purchase stamps, which he should have entered up in the postage book. This account was checked by Mr. J. F. O'Toole, who also prepared summaries of receipts and expenditure in the postage book, from which summaries the amounts referred to by the auditor, totalling £8, were omitted.

THE PROVISION CHECK.

In dealing with the provision check account he said that on the death of the Assistant Master (Mr. Hennessy), in January, 1924, this account, which had been kept by him, fell into arrears. He drew the attention of the Commissioners to the matter on February 13th, 1924, and was instructed to have it written up to date without delay. In December 17th, 1924, he reported that Mr. P. J. Byrne, who had kept this book, stated that he was unable to reach on the work of bringing it up to date, and on May 7th, 1925, the Commissioners approved of his report that the provision check account should be re-transferred to the Master to be entered up by him. Subsequently he re-entered up by him. Subsequently he repeatedly drew the Master's attention to the matter, and had also drawn the attention of the Board to it.

STATEMENT BY THE MASTER.

Mr. E. Doyle, Master, in his reply, stated that his books were kept regularly down to the 25th inst., the date of the death of the Assistant Master. The books had not been certified by the Workhouse Master for the past twenty-five years, and the question was never raised by auditor, inspector, or other authority. The officers in charge of the various departments were held responsible for the proper book-keeping of their departments. No provision was made by the Commissioners for the purpose of bringing the Assistant Master's books up to date. No successor to the Assistant Master was appointed.

The Master said that it was not his duty to check the daily provision issue book. The provision check book for the half-year ending September, 1925, was re-transferred to the Master's office in July or August of that year, the receipts only being entered therein, leaving it then much in arrears, since when it has been pushed on with all possible speed. The Master's cash receipt book, which the Auditor complained that he could not examine, as it had not been written up to date, was an elaborate summary of moneys received and lodged, compiled for the convenience of the Auditor.

PROVISIONS AND CLOTHING.

In reply to the Auditor's charges with reference to the provisions and clothing accounts, he stated that the confusion arose from the Commissioners' decision to keep Pelletstown and Cabra separate and distinct from the workhouse, and to invite tenders for supplies to be delivered there direct. He never received any directions as to embodying these goods in the workhouse books. The stocktaker took the stocks in each of these places, but added them to the stock he found in the workhouse as one whole.

In reply to the surcharges made by the Auditor against Mr. William Murphy, the storekeeper, and himself, he pointed out that this was the first time in his experience there that the workhouse master was held directly responsible for deficiencies or surpluses. The keeping of the provision check account was assigned to the Assistant Master, the clothing and establishment accounts to the Master's senior clerk, and these officers always attended before the auditors. He requested that the Auditor be asked to reconsider his report.

Mr. Seumas McLysaght presided at the meeting, and Dr. W. J. Dwyer and Mrs. J. Power were also present.

There has never been another food like this!

No other food gives you what Grape-Nuts gives you. Grape-Nuts was scientifically planned by a food expert to supply a deficiency in modern, over-refined soft-foods which tempt the palate and satisfy hunger but which do not nourish.

Grape-Nuts was made, first of all, to be delicious. It has a delightful nut-like flavour due to skilful blending of whole wheat and malted barley.

Grape-Nuts supplies the balanced nourishment our bodies must have. It gives you five vital food elements, often deficient in modern diet: dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for heat and energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bones; protein for muscle and body-building; and the essential vitamin-B, the builder of appetite.

A plateful of Grape-Nuts at breakfast-time supplies a well-balanced nourishing ration.

A special baking process makes Grape-Nuts very easy to digest. It also makes Grape-Nuts crisp. The teeth and gums cannot be healthy without some crisp food to chew. All dental authorities agree upon this necessity for crisp food. Ask your Grocer today for a packet of Grape-Nuts or accept—

DEATH OF MR. T. J. FURLONG.

FOUND SHOT IN HIS OFFICE.

The death of Mr. T. J. Furlong, a well-known Dublin solicitor, took place yesterday, in tragic circumstances. It appears that Mr. Furlong arrived in his offices at 11 Eustace street at about 10.15 a.m., and shortly afterwards members of his staff were startled by the sound of a revolver shot coming from Mr. Furlong's private office. On entering his room, they found him lying lifeless on the floor, with a wound in his head. Near the body was a six-chambered revolver, containing one spent and two live cartridges.

The late Mr. Furlong enjoyed an extensive practice in Dublin, having been admitted a solicitor in Trinity Term, 1892. His home address was at "Glenavon," Highfield road, Rathgar. Mr. Furlong leaves a widow and family.

PROPOSED LIFFEY TUNNEL.

TENDER TO BE RECOMMENDED FOR ACCEPTANCE.

The tender of Messrs. Sir Robert McAlpine and Sons, Ltd. (Ireland) for the construction of a 7-foot tunnel under the River Liffey will be recommended for acceptance to the City Commissioners at their meeting on Saturday next.

Nine tenders were received, the following being the two lowest:—Messrs. McAlpine and Sons, £28,665; Kinnear, Moodie and Co., £29,500.

The tunnel will be for the purpose of carrying a sewer, water-main and electric light cables under the river.

HOWTH LABOURERS' HOUSES INQUIRY.

The Department of Local Government having received, on the one hand, a resolution from the Howth Urban Council, requesting an inquiry into the question of the sale of artisans' dwellings, congestion in these houses, provision of new houses, etc.; and, on the other hand, a memorial from a number of room-dwellers in Howth protesting against the sale of houses to persons for whom they were never intended under the Labourers Acts, an inquiry was held by Mr. P. J. Brohan, M.T.I.I., Department of Housing Inspector, at the offices of the Howth Council, yesterday, into the administration and general management by that body of certain houses provided by the North Dublin Rural Council under the Labourers Acts, and subsequently transferred to the Howth Council.

Evidence was given by Mr. James Moore, Town Clerk, that there were two cottages occupied by people who had no tenancy agreement with the Council, and that the net loss on the houses for the last seven years was £140 1s. 10d.

Councillor James Caulfield, who said that he was responsible for the drafting of the memorial, said that he was informed that at Station road, Sutton, there were nineteen people living in one cottage. Some of the tenants, he added, sub-let their portion of the houses in the interests of humanity.

It was stated that the North Dublin Council was still liable for the outstanding loan in respect of the house, and on its behalf it was requested that, in the event of sale, the loans should be paid before there was any conveyance to the purchaser.

Suggestions for the provision of houses, which, after being rented for ten or fifteen years at 10s. per week, would become the tenants' property, were made by Mrs. Guinness, a member of the Howth Council.

STRUGGLE WITH ARMED HIGHWAYMAN.

BELFAST MAN'S PLUCK.

Mr. John Malone, dentist, of Somerton road, Belfast, who, when attacked by four men near his home late on the night of the 17th ult., put up a stout resistance, breaking his stick over one of his assailants, was congratulated on his courageous action and his fortunate escape by the Belfast Recorder yesterday, when Robert Gordon, Leopold street; Ernest McCrea, Bray street; Alexander Kennedy, Oakley street, and William R. Donaldson, Ottawa street, were found guilty of having assaulted Mr. Malone while armed with a revolver with intent to rob. The prisoners were put back for sentence.

Constable C. Kennedy, who went to Mr. Malone's assistance and caught one of the attackers, was commended for his courage and prompt action.

It was stated that a revolver, loaded in two chambers, was found inside a hoarding about 150 yards from where Mr. Malone was attacked.

THE MALAHIDE TRAGEDY.

As the analysis of the remains of the victims of the Malahide tragedy has not been completed, the inquest has been further adjourned to the 9th June next.

England's Victory.

The British general strike, which was declared at midnight on Monday, the 3rd May, came to an end at noon yesterday—abandoned unconditionally by the Trade Union Congress. Thus the authority of the State has been vindicated; the Constitution has put a deadly peril under its feet, and the Government has been justified of its faith in the English people. We may say truly that this nine days' strike has been a nine days' wonder. The blow was aimed at the country's very heart, and in a night a touch of paralysis fell upon every nerve of a vast and complex organisation. Mr. Baldwin's Government never wavered; quietly and spontaneously tens of thousands of Englishmen stepped into the breach which the strikers' desertion had created. Food supplies were maintained. Men and women pursued their daily tasks in a smiling disregard of innumerable hardships. With the help of eager volunteers railway services were restored until, when the strike ended, they had begun to be almost normal; and in this miracle of reorganisation no man played a finer part than the Irish manager of the greatest railway company. Throughout all trials the people's pulse remained calm. Instances of disorder were few; for the strikers themselves behaved with a restraint that deserves frank recognition. The only deaths which can be attributed to the strike were those of three persons killed in railway accidents. In any other country in the world a like situation would have brought big guns and bombing aeroplanes into play. Mr. Baldwin has described the failure of the strike as a victory for the common-sense of all parties. We may put the same truth in different words: it is a victory for the genius of British democracy.

Englishmen are good losers and good winners. They have no desire that the passions which the strike failed to provoke shall be born in the hour of triumph. It is in this spirit that the King addresses his people to-day, urging them to put all bitterness behind them and to strive now for a lasting peace. Yet England cannot ignore the enormous price of the strike. The country will be poorer for many a day as the result of Labour's futile appeal to revolution. Ten million pounds are a small estimate of the cost of the Government's defensive plans during the last nine days. More than another ten, perhaps, represent the loss from the interrupted output of industry. It is certain that these losses will compel Mr. Churchill to revise his Budget and to impose new taxes. There will be further and continuing loss from the invasion of British markets by Germany and other countries during the last nine days. The result of the strike can bring no financial compensation; but, fortunately, a moral and social compensation of the utmost value may redress the balance. Labour chastened by its defeat and a nation magnanimous in victory may find a real settlement of the coal dispute; and such a settlement might have precious effects upon all the relations between Labour and Capital. Yesterday the Trade Union Congress accepted Sir Herbert Samuel's proposals as "a basis on which the negotiations in the coal industry can be renewed." These proposals, which involve a temporary continuance of the subsidy, are printed in another column. Mr. Cook, of the Miners' Federation, is still in swashbuckling mood; but other men have wiser heads, and there is good hope that reason may prevail.

The settlement of the British strike will bring profound relief to Ireland. Making allowance for the peculiar difficulties of Irish Labour, we may agree that it has acted with restraint and caution during the last few days. It had no desire to be drawn into the English vortex; but it was yielding gradually to an extreme pressure, and we have little doubt that, if the strike had lasted for another week, neither the Free State nor Northern Ireland could have escaped its devastating influence. The failure of the English strike has snatched us back to safety; yet we, too, have suffered much. Interrupted services have injured our commerce and have produced some unemployment. The stoppage of the cattle trade and the fall in agricultural prices have hit our farmers hardly at a critical time; and, of course, everything that tends to impoverish England is bad for Ireland's welfare. Our immediate policy must be to make the utmost use of restored communications and to export large supplies of our produce to an England which, still partly isolated from the rest of Europe, will be glad to receive them. Indeed, if we take the fullest advantage of the next few weeks we may be able to regain some of the ground which we have lost in the English markets. We may hope also that Irish Labour will learn something from the object-lesson of the British strike; and both Irish Labour and Irish Capital will follow with keen interest the negotiations for the settlement of the coal dispute. Statesmanship and generosity are infectious virtues. If they bring industrial peace to England, surely we shall wish to apply the same solvent nearer home.

The Spring Show.

Among visitors to the Royal Dublin Society's Agricultural Show at Ballsbridge yesterday there may have been some who recalled the Spring Show that was held in Easter Week ten years ago, when the judging went on behind closed gates while troops marched by outside on the way to the barricades in Dublin. For close upon two hundred years the Society has pressed forward its splendid work for Irish agriculture, and never was its position in Irish life more secure than it is to-day. A hundred signs bore home upon the visitor to Ballsbridge yesterday realisation of the fact that the Show is a national event, valued by the farmers of the whole country as an occasion for an agricultural stock-taking. Large parties of school children were to be seen at the Show yesterday; and it would be hard to conceive a better means of teaching the young generation the first principles of Irish economy than to take them through the showyards in which rural Ireland is reproduced in little. Others besides school children could pay a similar visit with advantage. The townsman would realise more clearly the variety and intricacy of that agricultural life that lies beyond the hills which bound his view; the countryman, in turn, would be taught that agriculture does not begin and end with the monthly fair, but is a great, nation-wide industry, demanding scientific methods from the cleaning of the milk-pan to the co-operative organisation of the nation's exports. While attendances at the Spring Show have multiplied, this year marks a large increase in entries for the competitions. If we exclude horse-jumping competitions, there are 1,901 entries, compared with 1,639 last year and 1,421 in 1924. It is not easy to reconcile the mounting success of the demonstrations at Ballsbridge with the continued decline of our agricultural business as a nation. The Show proves that Irish produce has not declined in quality. Farmers will point out that, while all that they have to sell has fallen in price, the cost of all that they need to buy remains at a high level. Their rivals, however, are surmounting this difficulty, and are increasing production instead of reducing it to a cautious minimum. The lesson of the Show, we think, is that Irish agriculture is enmeshed in difficulties not wholly of its own making, of which the chief are bad transport, absence of a national system of marketing, and a plague of parasitic middlemen. A simple example of the unnatural state of our agricultural economy is seen in the fact that consumers in Dublin have been paying 1s. 6d. a dozen for eggs during a week in which producers have received as little as 2d. a dozen. It is of happy omen that, while so many fine specimens of Irish-bred stock are being exhibited, news is received of the lifting of the ban on the importation of Irish cattle into South Africa.

Control of Rents.

On the motion of President Cosgrave the second reading of the Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Bill, 1926, was passed by Dáil Eireann yesterday. This Bill proposes to continue some of the provisions of the Act of 1923 for a further period of three years. Rents will be controlled until June, 1927, of houses with a valuation of £52 in the City of Dublin and £35 elsewhere. Houses with city and country valuations of £40 and £30 respectively will be controlled until June, 1928, while the cheaper class of house will be controlled until June, 1929. President Cosgrave explained that by 1929 he hoped that the housing problem would be so far on the road towards solution that a free market could be restored. The present Bill seeks to safeguard the tenant so far as possible, while at the same time encouraging landlords to build houses as an investment. It enables standard rents to be increased by a further ten per cent., but is calculated to prevent the mulcting of that class of people which is forced by circumstances to live in the cheapest houses that are obtainable. The Government's action indicates that the time is approaching when rents will be fixed by the ordinary law of supply and demand, and when everybody who wants to rent a house will be able to find one. Landlords undoubtedly have suffered severely as a result of control. As the President said, many of them whose incomes are derived entirely from house property have been hit very hardly, and the new Bill will give them relief for which they have been waiting for several years. Much has been said about "profiteering" in house rents; but the fact is, as was pointed out in the Dáil, that the real culprits in this connection are tenants who sub-let their houses, often paying nominal rents and making substantial incomes from "flats." The Bill makes no attempt to deal with these people, who have brought the whole house-owning community into disrepute. It fails also to deal with the rapacity of persons who let "furnished flats" at rents for which there can be no justification. On the whole, however, it is a good Bill, and we hope sincerely that it will have the desired effect of increasing the private output of reasonably priced houses throughout the Free State.

Polish Playboys.

With the possible exception of the Portuguese and the Greeks, the Poles are the most active politicians in Europe. Long years of oppression and servitude have fired them with violent political passions, and, although they have achieved complete independence as a result of the Allied victory in the Great War—despite the fact that the extreme patriots fought on the side of Germany—they still are obsessed with the political complex. Since the establishment of the Republic there have been constant alarums in Warsaw. Within a few months of their entry into the League of Nations the Poles proceeded to seize Vilna, the Lithuanian capital, and invaded the Ukraine, involving themselves in a war with Russia from which they were extricated only by the military genius of the French General Weygand. Now, weary, no doubt, of the piping times of peace, they have staged a little revolution. Friends of the former President Pilsudski, who led the Polish Legion in the German Army during the war, have organised a military revolt and have marched to the gates of Warsaw. The President of the Republic, we are told, has gone to confer with the rebel leaders, who are expected to lay down their arms without further delay. No blood has been shed; nobody even fired a shot, and nothing more is likely to be heard of the revolution until the next time. Poland's antics would be amusing but for the fact of her geographical position. Wedged in between Russia and Germany, she has an opportunity of playing an important part in the history of the next century; but, if she continues to conduct her affairs on the model of an opera bouffe, her powerful neighbours may treat her again as she has been treated so often in the course of her varied career.

THE NATION'S VICTORY.

THE TASK BEFORE TRADE UNIONS.

The last ten days have been a period of unmitigated and incalculable waste for every class in the community, says The Times. Unemployment must be greater, taxation heavier, reforms of every kind postponed as a consequence—perhaps, for years to come. Even the immediate problems, added to the heavy legacy of the war, will be realised only by degrees; for trade unionism, accepted everywhere as an essential factor in collective bargaining, has been shaken to its foundations by the discovery that no contract with a trade union is worth the paper on which it is written.

In every industry in the country—deliberately with good-will, certainly not by hurried Government action—that state of affairs must somehow be set right if trade unionism is to survive and flourish at all. There must be "no malice or vindictiveness," as the Prime Minister wisely pleaded, no talk of smashing the unions or of curtailing the legitimate purposes for which they came into existence. But, unless the unions come of themselves to some sense of the sanctity of the plighted word, unless they set their own house in order, there is no hope whatever of future peace and confidence in any business in the land. It will at least be some compensation for a disastrous upheaval if that lesson is laid to heart and turned to account.

It will be still greater compensation to remember that the general strike was a proved and decisive failure in its attempt to paralyse the nation, and that the victory was won, under the determined and efficient leadership of the Government, by the splendid courage and self-sacrifice of the nation itself.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The Prince of Wales's visits to Hull and Halifax, which were originally fixed for next Monday and Tuesday, have been cancelled, but it is understood that the Prince intends to visit both these towns later in the season.

News comes from all sides of the postponement of festivities which could not have been held if the strike had continued. It is probable that much difficulty will be found in fitting these functions into the programme for the season, which is already crowded for the next two months. The ball in aid of the Friends of the Poor, organised by the Duchess of Rutland, which was to have taken place at Crosby House (lent by the Earl and Countess of Ancaster) was postponed on very short notice. The Countess of Donoughmore's dance at 5 Chesterfield Gardens, arranged for to-morrow night, has also been postponed.

The Irish dance hostesses in London this season will include the Marchioness of Headfort, who will give a dance for her daughter, Lady Millicent Taylour, at 25 Cavendish square on June 22nd; Viscountess Massereene and Ferrard, who will entertain for her daughter, the Hon. Diana Skeffington, and Lady Butler, who is bringing out her elder daughter, Miss Joan Butler, this season.

Among the peers who volunteered for special work during the strike were the Earl of Caledon, who undertook work in one of the engine sheds of the London and North-Eastern Railway Company, and Lord Monkswell, who took charge of a signal-box on the same company's system. Lord Dunsany was one of the early volunteers as a special constable, but was transferred to the Intelligence Department.

Lady Louis Mountbatten has been acting as telephonist in a London office throughout the strike. Lord Portarlington has been doing good work at Paddington in helping with the transport of food-stuffs. Lord Herschell has been driving a train in the Isle of Wight. Lord Burghley worked at the London Docks.

The President, Vice-President and Council of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland deeply regret that, owing to the strike in England, Dr. Charles B. Goulden, M.A., M.D., M.Ch., Camb., F.R.C.S., will be unable to deliver the Mary Louisa Prentice Montgomery Lecture on the 14th inst.

THE FREE STATE'S FUTURE.

LORD GLENAVY AN OPTIMIST.

Lord Glenavy was the principal guest at a luncheon given at the Shelbourne Hotel yesterday by the Companions of St. Patrick. Surgeon J. S. McArdle presided, and there was a large attendance of Companions and their friends.

Lord Glenavy said that he had read in a newspaper with amusement that Mr. Kevin O'Higgins and himself were co-operating to organise a great Conservative Party. (Laughter.) He had read the announcement with interest, because it was the first time that he had heard of it. A friend of his had told him that he had overheard in a tramcar two citizens discussing this matter, and one said to the other: "That's a curious combination, O'Higgins and Glenavy. It reminds me of Landseer's famous picture, 'Dignity and Impudence.'" (Laughter.)

As one who had turned his back on politics and party, he would so long as he was capable do all that he could to promote goodwill between North and South. He could not understand how any sensible or patriotic citizen could believe that there was any other possible solution for them than loyal and whole-hearted support of the Free State Government. There had been a great deal of destructive criticism of the present Government—a criticism which was too provincial.

THE GOVERNMENT'S SUCCESS.

"Unless we are to shrink back into an attenuated province, it is essential that we should incur all the expenditure necessary to entitle us to take our place and speak with some power, and effect in the great community of the Commonwealth of Nations associated with the British Empire." (Applause.)

The Free State, Lord Glenavy went on, had given them a competent and impartial judiciary, substantial armed forces, a competent and efficient Civil Service, loyal to the Government and the community that they served; they had a police force which was competent and willing to protect the lives of the citizens and punish crime and outrage. The present Government had promoted a keener civic spirit and a keener sense of obligation among the citizens. He was optimistic about the future of their beloved country, mainly because he realised the extraordinary and remarkable success which a few inexperienced but courageous and patriotic men in charge of the Government of the country had achieved in so short a time, and they had no reason to despair either of the people or the country.

PULLING TOGETHER.

"All that is required," Lord Glenavy concluded, "is that each man amongst us should pull his weight, and that all should pull in the same direction. If we do that, we shall advance our country on the path of permanent peace, progress and prosperity."

Major Bryan Cooper expressed the thanks of the Companions to Lord Glenavy. While agreeing with Lord Glenavy as to the great claim that the present Government had on the gratitude of every citizen for their past services, he expressed the opinion that it would be wrong for the country to become a mutual admiration society. Criticism was a healthy thing, but it should be fair and, if possible, constructive.

The Chairman proposed the health of the guests, and coupled with them the name of Captain Henry Harrison, M.C.

Captain Harrison briefly responded.

Mr. O'Callaghan, Secretary, said that the Companions had gained some 70 new members in the past few months.

A vote of sympathy was passed with the relatives of the late Mr. Frederick Sugden.

LONDON LETTER.

THE END OF THE STRIKE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

About ten minutes past one to-day a big crowd stationed on the south side of Whitehall began to surge across the street towards the entrance to Downing street. The line of special constables on duty there controlled the movement, for which there seemed to be no explanation. There was nothing apparent in Downing street to account for it; but there must have been some kind of invisible communication between the minds of the waiting crowd and the minds of those at No. 10, because at that moment the announcement was being made that the Trade Union Congress had admitted its defeat by calling the strike off. Among the crowd the rumour—for it was only a rumour—at that moment passed with lightning rapidity, and it was most excited when it received the imprimatur of the Prime Minister that the announcement of the calling off was official.

Public Relief.

The news was conveyed speedily to the City, and on arriving in Fleet street at five and twenty minutes past one I found that typewritten newspapers, announcing that the strike had been called off, were being sold for any sum that the buyer liked to give. The statement was posted on windows and lamp-posts and any available place in order that anybody might read it. The gloomy expression common on most faces a few minutes before disappeared, and everybody was smiling brightly, while here and there cheers were heard from the side streets, where the printers were congregated, to learn the result of the negotiations. The unpopularity of the strike could be gauged by the enthusiasm with which the announcement of the surrender of the Trades Union Congress was received.

Mr. Baldwin's Triumph.

It was natural that all who could be present in the House of Commons this afternoon would wend their way to Westminster. When the Speaker took the chair the House was packed; all the Conservative benches were overflowing, and even the Liberal benches, so frequently empty, were occupied. There was an attempt at a demonstration when Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, Mr. J. H. Thomas, and Mr. Philip Snowden came in to take their seats, but it fell strangely flat. A minute afterwards a shout went up from the Conservative benches, and with one movement the Conservative members rose to their feet as Mr. cheered enthusiastically. The cheering continued for quite half a minute, a long time for such a demonstration. Mr. Baldwin smiled at the warmth of his reception, but otherwise took little heed of it.

A Thrilling Moment.

In the Peers' Gallery the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and a great number of Peers gazed down with interest on the exciting scene, while the occupants of the Public Gallery were restrained with difficulty from joining in the demonstration. The members in the side galleries of the House, which are technically outside the House itself, rose from their seats and joined in the cheering taking place below them. It was a thrilling moment, and I think most of those present were fully conscious that it was historic. A great danger threatening the country had been overcome, and the victory was due to the firm determination of the Prime Minister and his Government that the Constitution should be maintained.

The Premier's Speech.

The House listened with some impatience to a question by Mr. Whiteley concerning arrests made in Yorkshire. The Home Secretary said that two men had been arrested, but, as the case was sub judice, he was unable to make a statement. A request was then made that bail should be granted to these men, but Sir William Joynson-Hicks replied that that was no business of his. Mr. Erskine had a question down on a strike subject, but, in view of the situation, he withdrew it. The way was then clear for Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, who asked the Prime Minister whether he had not a statement to make on the situation. Mr. Baldwin, who evidently was deeply moved, began to speak in a very low voice, and it was gathered that the Trade Union Council had called off the strike forthwith. In his short speech there were two phrases which were warmly cheered—one, "The victory of common-sense," and the other, "Put behind us all malice and vindictiveness."

History in Six Minutes.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald then rose and suggested that there would be many things to clear up and discuss, and he hoped that the House would be kept fully informed. He almost assumed, in fact, that there was something further taking place behind the scenes than the mere surrender question; but the Prime Minister made no definite reply to his remarks, merely saying that nothing could be arranged to-day. The historic scene had occupied only six minutes. The Speaker then put a motion from the chair, and the House went to a division on the question that the Standing Orders should be suspended at eleven o'clock.

Sir Herbert Samuel.

Sir Herbert Samuel may be regarded as the god in the machine; for it is due to his efforts that the Trade Union Congress accepted a formula which it considered satisfactory, one permitting the leaders to save their faces when withdrawing the strike order. Informal conversations have been taking place since the week-end between Sir Herbert Samuel and the representatives of the Trade Union Congress, and, though his proposals were not officially supported by the Government, there can be little doubt that the Prime Minister was aware of them, and will accept them when the right moment comes. These terms include a continuation of the subsidy for a limited period.

The Miners' Position.

The failure of the general strike does not mean that the coal dispute is ended, and it may continue for some time to come. Mr. Cook, to use a somewhat vulgar expression, "has been left in the cart," and refuses to be a party to the surrender, saying that he was no party to the calling off of the strike, nor was he consulted. There will be no resumption of negotiations unless the Miners' Federation accepts the understanding agreed to by the Trade Union Congress as a reasonable basis. Mr. Cook further stated this afternoon that "the decision of the Trade Union Congress has nothing to do with us, and our men will have to decide what they will do in the light of the present circumstances. Our stoppage may still continue for an indefinite period."

Conservative Joy.

The Lobby was a seething mass of members after the scene in the House. It was almost impossible to hear what anybody had to say, so loud was the noise of the chatter and conversation. Members of the Conservative Party were enthusiastic in their praise of the stand made by the Prime Minister and the Government, and equally outspoken in their views regarding the strikers. Up to the very last moment, and even after the surrender, the Socialists were claiming that they were winning, and that the call to the engineering and shipbuilding trades had met with a magnificent result this morning; but when asked why the Trade Union Congress called the strike off, their answer generally was that it had secured a fair deal for the miners.

GENERAL STRIKE ENDS.

ABANDONED YESTERDAY BY THE LABOUR LEADERS.

BACK TO COAL REPORT.

"A VICTORY FOR COMMON-SENSE" —MR. BALDWIN.

SIR H. SAMUEL'S FORMULA.

GOVERNMENT MAKES AN APPEAL TO EMPLOYERS.

The General Strike was called off yesterday—the ninth day. Negotiations are now to be resumed to end the lock-out in the mines, which resulted in the attempt to cause a total stoppage of the transport services, the power stations, and the Press. The unconditional end to the General Strike is attributed to the parleys conducted with the Labour leaders by Sir Herbert Samuel, who suggested a formula for restarting the mines. This, however, has yet to be accepted by the miners.

THE news, which was circulated all over the British Isles by special editions of the evening papers and the emergency bulletins and by wireless, was received with unbounded gratification. Cheers were raised in the Stock Exchange and in the streets, while in several places in the country the "Doxology" was sung. It was not unexpected by those people who had seen the reports of the conversations which took place on Tuesday and lasted until the early hours of yesterday morning.

The Prime Minister, in announcing the calling off of the general strike to the House of Commons, said that the peace which had come at this moment was a victory for the common-sense, not of any one party, but of the whole people of the United Kingdom. A like announcement was made by the Marquis of Salisbury in the House of Lords.

REINSTATEMENT: GOVERNMENT'S APPEAL.

In a number of instances yesterday it was announced that all the strikers will not be taken back, while in other cases the employers have declared that, in future, no union men will be employed. In this connection the following official statement was issued last night:—

His Majesty's Government have no power to compel employers to take back every man who has been on strike, nor have they entered into any obligations of any kind in this matter. Some displacements are inevitable in view of the reduction of business consequent upon the strike, as well as any obligations which may have been entered into by employers towards volunteers who have helped them to carry on during the last week.

Attention is, however, drawn to the hope expressed by the Prime Minister in his statement in the House of Commons, that we should resume our work in a spirit of co-operation, putting behind us all malice and all vindictiveness. The best course is for the various trades unions to get into immediate touch with the associations of employers concerned, in order that, if possible, a satisfactory agreement may be reached.

CONFERENCE POSSIBLE TO-DAY.

It is stated that the miners have already been invited to meet the coal owners. There is a possibility that a conference will be held to-day, although the miners' leaders will not be able to negotiate on any new basis until after to-morrow's delegate meeting.

SIR HERBERT SAMUEL'S FORMULA.

The following correspondence passed between Sir Herbert Samuel and the Trades Union Congress General Council prior to the visit of the Labour leaders to Downing street to announce the end of the general strike:—

SIR HERBERT SAMUEL TO THE GENERAL COUNCIL:

"As the outcome of the conversations which I had with your committee, I attach a memorandum embodying the conclusions that have been reached. I have made it clear to your committee from the outset that I have been acting entirely on my own initiative, received no authority from the Government, and can give no assurances on their behalf.

"I am of opinion that the proposals embodied in the memorandum are suitable for adoption, and are likely to promote a settlement of the differences in the coal industry.

"I shall strongly recommend their acceptance by the Government when the negotiations are renewed."

THE REPLY OF THE GENERAL COUNCIL.

"The General Council, having carefully considered your letter of to-day and the memorandum attached to it, concurred in your opinion, that it offers a basis on which the negotiations upon the conditions in the coal industry can be renewed. They are taking the necessary measures to terminate the general strike, relying upon the published assurances of the Prime Minister as to the steps that would follow.

"They assume that during the resumed negotiations the subsidy will be renewed and that the lock-out notices to the miners will be immediately withdrawn."

The memorandum submitted by Sir Herbert Samuel to the General Council of the Trades Union Congress setting out his formula was as follows:—

1—The negotiations upon the conditions of the coal industry should be resumed, the subsidy being renewed for such reasonable period as may be required for that purpose.

2—Any negotiations are unlikely to be successful unless they provide for means of settling disputes in the industry other than conferences between the mine-owners and the miners alone. A National Wages Board should, therefore, be established which would include representatives of those two parties, with a neutral element and an independent chairman. The proposals in this direction, tentatively made in the report of the Royal Commission, should be pressed and the powers of the proposed Board enlarged.

3—The parties to the Board should be entitled to raise before it any points they consider relevant to the issue under discussion, and the Board should be required to take such points into consideration.

4—There should be no revision of the previous wage rates, unless there are sufficient assurances that the measure of the reorganisation proposed by the Commission will be effectively adopted. A Committee should be established, as proposed by the Prime Minister, on which representatives of the men should be included, whose duty it should be to co-operate with the Government in the preparation of the legislative and administrative measures that are required. The same Committee, or, alternatively, the National Wages Board, should assure itself that the necessary steps, so far as they relate to matters within the industry, are not being neglected or unduly postponed.

5—After these points have been agreed, and the Miners' National Wages Board has considered every practicable means of meeting such immediate financial difficulties as exist, it may, if that course is found to be absolutely necessary, proceed to the preparation of a wage agreement.

6—Any such agreement should—a—If practicable, be on simpler lines than hitherto followed.

b—Not adversely affect in any way the wages of the lowest paid man.

c—Fix reasonable figures below which the wage of no class of labour for the normal customary week's work should be reduced in any circumstances.

d—In the event of any new adjustment being made, should provide for the revision of such adjustments by the Wages Board from time to time if the facts warrant that course.

7—Measures should be adopted to prevent the recruitment of new workers over the age of eighteen years into the industry if unemployed miners are available.

8—Workers who are displaced as a consequence of the closing of uneconomic collieries should be provided for by:

a—The transfer of such men as may be mobile with the Government assistance that may be required, as recommended in the report of the Royal Commission.

b—The maintenance for such period as may be fixed of those who cannot be so transferred and for whom alternative employment cannot be found. This maintenance to comprise, in addition to the existing rate of unemployment pay under the Unemployment Insurance Act, of such amount as may be agreed. A contribution should be made by the Treasury to cover the additional sums so disbursed.

c—The rapid construction of new houses to accommodate transferred workers. The Trades Union Congress will facilitate this by consultation and co-operation with all those who are concerned."

The Home Secretary has suggested to employers that they should follow the Government's practice and grant at least two days' extra pay to volunteers when they are being dispensed with.

The result of a ballot of members of the Sailors' and Firemen's Union was announced last night as follows:—For the strike, 2,199; against, 4,726. Those figures, it was pointed out, only represent the men in the home ports.

Within an hour of the news reaching Sheffield the full service of trams was in operation.

The Lord Mayor of Birmingham, in a message to the citizens, urges the desirability of settling down, and not allowing any view to stand in the way of complete accord.

The Bishop of Birmingham (Dr. Barnes), in a message on behalf of the churches of the city, expresses the hope that no claims of victory will be made.

MR. BALDWIN'S THANKS.

NO BITTERNESS.

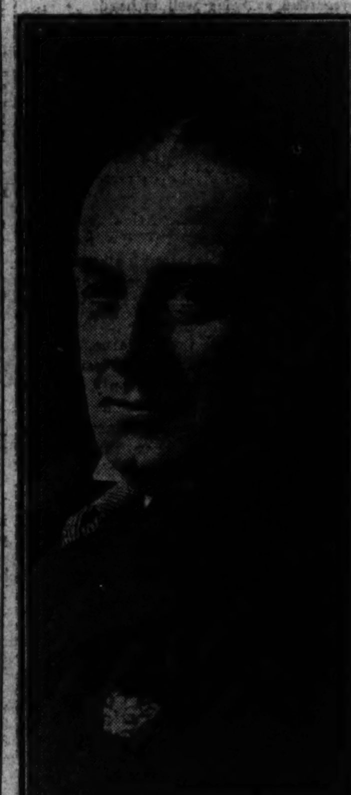

DUTY TO FORGET ALL RECRIMINATION.

"BACK TO WORK."

MINE NEGOTIATIONS WITHOUT DELAY.

Mr. Baldwin, in a speech broadcast from 2LO last night, expressed his thanks to the nation for its support in the crisis, and said that he would re-open negotiations without delay for the settlement of the coal dispute. He said:—

The general strike is over, and several days will elapse before normal conditions are restored. The strike has ended, as I made it plain in my speech to the nation a few nights ago, that it would end—without conditions entered into by the Government. No Government, confronted by such a menace, could enter into a conditional negotiation, the very undertaking of which would involve treachery to the accepted basis of our democratic constitution.

Having said this, I must make it plain that I adhere both to the spirit and to the letter of the speech which I delivered to the nation a few days ago.

Our business is not to triumph over those who have failed in a mistaken attempt. It is rather to rally them together, with the population as a whole, in an attempt to restore the well-being of the nation.

NEGOTIATIONS WITHOUT DELAY.

I shall, without delay, enter into negotiations with the object of adjusting those differences between the owners and men in the coal trade which engaged the constant attention of the Government at the moment when the general strike unhappily emerged.

It would not be right, however, that I should let to-night pass without expressing the heartfelt thanks of the Government to those of our countrymen who supported us in the struggle which is over. We considered it an absolute duty to call upon the country to resist the menace of a general strike. The people of these islands responded to the appeal, as in our long history they have met the demands on their love of freedom and their sense of fair play.

THANKS TO HELPERS.

I hope that my message will go to the whole army of volunteers—men, women and even children—who have demonstrated that there is no national service which cannot be discharged, even with improvised methods, by loyal citizens, if the national safety should require it.

I thank those who, in their thousands, responded to the call of special constables, ready to run any risk in order that they might demonstrate that the home of our great race has not forgotten its reverence for law and order.

I thank those who travelled in the long night through the length and breadth of the country to distribute the Government paper. All those who worked in London to keep the business of the nation going, those who never failed us during these anxious days—they deserve well of the nation too.

THE SERVICES.

In particular I desire to express my admiration for the courage and patience shown by the Navy, the Army, the Air Force, and the police throughout the country. If I do not mention others, it is not because I forget their services; it is because the list is too long.

All have served their country well, and those who in their hearts were resolved then, and who are resolved now, to serve her well need ask no other praise.

NO BITTERNESS.

I have only this to add. I never felt any bitterness in my heart, as I realised that sympathy with the miners, which we all share, was the dominant motive underlying the action of the trade unions. That action, on whatever feeling it was based, was unconstitutional in character and directly threatened the safety of the nation.

Of this, however, I am certain, that our duty at the moment is to forget all recrimination. Let employers act with generosity; let workmen put their whole heart loyally into their work; waste no time in determining who was to blame for anything. Let us set England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland going again.

The Employers' Association and the trade unions will meet without delay to adjust the many difficult questions which are bound to arise.

SPIRIT OF COMRADESHIP.

The elements of our population who do not desire to see in our country a great democratic Constitution are negligible. Let the rest of us, men and women alike, band ourselves together in a spirit of comradeship to develop and maintain the industries of our country. As I said in the House of Commons this afternoon, it is of the utmost importance that the whole British nation should not look backward, but forward, and resume our work in a spirit of co-operation and good-will.

STRIKE OFF—OFFICIAL.

The following is the text of the announcement made yesterday by the Chairman and Secretary of the Trades Union Congress:—

In order to resume negotiations, the General Council of the T.U.C. has decided to terminate the general strike to-day, and telegrams of instructions are being sent to the general secretaries of all affiliated unions.

Members, before acting, must await the definite instructions from their own Executive Councils.

Restrictions on coal consumption and other services are to be continued for the present.

Further recruitment of special constables has been discontinued. Those enrolled have been asked to hold themselves in readiness till further notice.

The present general organisation, including the Hyde Park food depôt, is to be retained for a few days.

KING'S MESSAGE TO HIS PEOPLE.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

TO MY PEOPLE.

The nation has just passed through a period of extreme anxiety. It was to-day announced that the General Strike had been brought to an end. At such a moment it is supremely important to bring together all my people to confront the difficult situation which still remains. This task requires the co-operation of all able and well-disposed men in the country. Even with such help it will be difficult, but it will not be impossible.

Let us forget whatever elements of bitterness the events of the past few days may have created, only remembering how steady and how orderly the country has remained though severely tested, and forthwith address ourselves to the task of bringing into being a peace which will be lasting because, forgetting the past, it looks only to the future with the hopefulness of a united people.

"NO CONDITIONS"—OFFICIAL.

WHAT LEADERS SAID AT No. 10 DOWNING STREET.

A TRANSCRIPT of the shorthand notes taken at the meeting between the Prime Minister and the representatives of the Trades Union Congress was broadcast last night, and "in view of the misleading reports which have since been circulated," it was announced that no conditions of any kind were made at the meeting.

TEXT OF OFFICIAL REPORT.

MR. PUGH'S STATEMENT.

The following official report was issued last night of the final meeting and interview with the Trades Union Council:—

MR. PUGH, Chairman of the Council, responding to the invitation of the Prime Minister, said:—When we separated, something over a week ago, it was, of course, recognised, and expressed on both sides, that the ultimate end would be a settlement of this matter by negotiations, and although the conflict has been very much extended, and developments have taken place, clearly all parties have had in view the ultimate arrangements that would have to be made to bring this trouble to a successful end.

Everybody has had to direct his thoughts, and to use such opportunities as presented themselves, and such public opinion as existed, with a view to effecting a resumption of negotiations. Your contribution was made in the statement delivered to the people of the country through the wireless stations. That was something which we, on our side, certainly could not ignore. On the other hand, we had been exploring other possibilities, with full knowledge that, whatever happened, and however long the present position lasted, or whatever might be its consequences, in the long run the process of negotiations would have to be gone through.

As a result of developments in that direction, and the possibilities that we see in getting back to negotiations, and of your assurance, speaking for the general community of citizens as a whole, that no step should be left unturned to get back to negotiations, we are here to-day, Sir, to say that this general strike is to be terminated forthwith, in order that negotiations may proceed, and we can only hope may proceed in a manner which will bring about a satisfactory settlement. That is the announcement which my General Council is empowered to make.

"CALLED OFF FORTHWITH."

THE PRIME MINISTER—That is, the general strike is to be called off forthwith?

MR. PUGH—Forthwith. It is merely a matter of the best way to get it done, with the least confusion.

THE PRIME MINISTER—All I would say in answer is—I thank God for your decision, and I would only say now I do not think it is a moment for lengthy discussion. I shall call my Cabinet together forthwith, report to them what you have said, and lose no time in using every endeavour to get the two contending parties together, and do all I can to ensure a just and lasting settlement. I hope it may be possible before long to make a statement of the lines on which we hope to accomplish that end.

"IN A BIG WAY."

MR. THOMAS—Only one or two of us wish to say anything to you, and it will be very brief. You answered us in the way we knew you would answer us, namely—that just as you recognise we have done a big thing in accepting the responsibility, we felt sure the big thing would be responded to in a big way. Whatever may be the view of the merits of the dispute now ending, there is common agreement that assistance from those who were opposing parties ten minutes ago is essential to rectify and make good, and start things on the right road again. We trust your word as Prime Minister. We ask you to assist us in the way you only can assist us, by asking employers and all others to make the position as easy and smooth as possible, because the one thing we must not have is guerilla warfare.

APPEAL FOR GOOD FEELING.

MR. BEVIN said that he hoped that the calling off of the strike would not be regarded as an act of weakness, but one of strength, requiring courage. It would facilitate the settlement and reinstatement if the Prime Minister would make a declaration, as head of the Government, that ready facilities should be given for early reinstatement of men in the undertakings affected by the strike, and a resumption of industry, especially in the productive trades, as speedily as possible, in good feeling. They did not want any delay on either side in getting back to work, and they offered to co-operate with the Prime Minister in effectually bringing about this result. Now, we have called our show off, said Mr. Bevin, and work will be resuming pretty quickly. I would like to know whether there is to be a resumption of the mining operations, or whether all the negotiations have to be carried on while the miners still remain out. You see, thousands of our people cannot go back if the colliers are still out, and if that be so also it is going to make it difficult to get a smooth running of the machine.

THE ESSENTIAL THING.

THE PRIME MINISTER, in final reply, said that he could not say more now, but would consider the point raised by Mr. Bevin. The thing was to get as quickly as possible into touch with the employers. The quicker that was done the better, and the less friction would there be. They had to see how best they could get the country quickly back into the condition in which they all wanted to see it. They would want his co-operation, and he wanted theirs, to try and make the country a better and happier place than it had been in recent years. As to the mines, he could not say what would happen. He would see the parties with the object of getting the mines started as soon as possible, and getting an agreement reached. They could, at any rate, rely on him and on the Cabinet to see that no step was left untaken to accomplish that end. They had all got a great deal to do, and a great deal of anxious and difficult work before them. The sooner they both got to work the better. The Prime Minister added that whatever decisions he came to would be best announced in the House of Commons.

The proceedings then terminated.

COAL STOPPAGE MAY CONTINUE.

MR. COOK SAYS MINERS WERE NOT CONSULTED.

After sitting the greater part of the afternoon, the Miners' Executive adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning. The following official statement, made yesterday by Mr. A. J. Cook, is the miners' reply to the proposals put before them by the Trade Union Congress on Tuesday night:—

In view of the statements made by the Trade Union Congress of the draft proposals received after they had met Sir Herbert Samuel, the Miners' Executive discussed the same on May 11 and passed the following resolution:—

"The Miners' Executive have given careful and patient consideration to the draft proposals prepared by the Trade Union Congress Committee and endorsed by the General Council, as representing what they call 'the best terms which can be obtained to settle the present crisis in the coal industry.' The Miners' Executive regret the fact that no opportunity for consideration was afforded the accredited representatives of the Miners' Federation on the Negotiating Committee in the preparation of the draft or in the discussions on May 11 leading thereto. At best, the proposals imply a reduction of wage rates of a large number of mineworkers, which is contrary to the repeated declarations of the Miners' Federation, and which they believe their fellow-trade unionists are assisting them to resist. They regret, therefore, whilst having regard to the grave issues involved, that they must reject the proposals. Moreover, if such proposals are submitted as a means to call off the general strike, such a step must be taken on the sole responsibility of the General Council of the Trade Union Congress."

CONFERENCE TO BE CALLED.

At the meeting of the Executive of the Miners' Federation yesterday morning the following resolution was passed:—

"That, after hearing the report of the representatives of the Trade Union Congress, we reaffirm our resolution of May 11, and express our profound admiration of the wonderful demonstration of loyalty displayed by all workers who promptly withdrew their labour in support of the miners and their standards, and undertake to report fully to a conference, to be convened as early as practicable."

NO PARTY TO DECISION.

Mr. Cook added:—"In regard to the Trade Union Congress's decision to call off the general strike, that was decided without consulting the Miners' Federation, and we were no party to it in any shape or form. As far as the future is concerned, we shall give a full report of all that has taken place to our conference, and the delegates themselves will decide what action they will take. They will either make a decision at that conference or refer the matter to be decided by the rank and file in the coalfields. Until then I do not intend to make any further statement in regard to the position, believing that it is my duty to report, first, fully all that has happened to the miners, who will be affected by the future negotiations. The decision of the Trade Union Congress has nothing to do with us, and our men will have to decide what they will do in the light of the present circumstances. Our stoppage may still continue for an indefinite period."

Milk will be reduced by 1d. to 7d. a quart in London to-morrow. The supplies of milk at present are in excess of normal requirements.

STATEMENT BY SIR H. SAMUEL.

GOVERNMENT JUSTIFIED IN RENEWING SUBSIDY.

Following the calling off of the general strike, Sir Herbert Samuel made the following explanatory statement:—

"The deadlock which had arisen was due to a complication of causes. The Government had refused—and rightly as it seems to me—to enter into negotiations of any kind, either with regard to the general strike or to the coal dispute, until the strike had been ended. The Trade Union Council held that they could not end the strike without the expectation that negotiations for a coal settlement would thereupon be resumed, and they held that those negotiations ought not to take place under the very unfavourable conditions that would be created if the coal mines were stopped meanwhile and the miners were without work.

"For the mines to resume working it was necessary either for a new wage settlement to be agreed, or for the old one to be revived. But a new settlement had not been agreed, and the negotiations were necessary for that very purpose. Under the old settlement a large part of the mines could not afford to re-open without a subsidy.

"The Government were prepared to grant a subsidy during a period of negotiation, but made it a condition—again, I think, quite rightly—that the negotiations should offer a prospect of success. No such prospect was offered, so long as the miners continued their rigid refusal to accept any wage reductions at the present time of any kind and under any conditions.

"This refusal was partly due to a deep suspicion, justified, as they thought by past experience, that those reductions having once been made little more would be heard in actual practice of many of the measures of reconstruction which were being offered as a reason for their acceptance.

"It was clear that if these last difficulties could be overcome the solution of the others would follow. The discussions in which I have been engaged have, therefore, been addressed to these points.

"The Trades Union Congress General Council has now adopted a possible basis for an understanding on these points, and it has terminated the general strike in the expectation that the way to a resumption of negotiations has thus been opened. Whether that will be so or not must, in my opinion, necessarily depend upon the Miners' Federation consenting to the basis that has been proposed. If they do not, the position, so far as the mines are concerned, will remain as it was, and the stoppage of the mines will continue.

"If they do, the Government will, I believe be fully justified in renewing the subsidy pending negotiations. The mines can then re-start, and the discussions that were interrupted be resumed. This is the immediate object to be attained, and the matter at this stage rests entirely with the Miners' Federation."

EIGHTY MINERS ARRESTED.

The Doncaster coalfield was the scene of a serious disorder yesterday afternoon, and 80 miners were arrested. Two hundred miners held up the traffic, wrecked a newspaper van and looted motor lorries. The police, who charged the crowd with batons, were reinforced by mounted men, who scattered the rioters. The arrested men were conveyed to Doncaster in motor buses.

SERVICES NOT YET NORMAL.

SOME STRIKERS REFUSE TO RETURN TO WORK.

L.N.E.R. NOTICE.

It will be some days before normal conditions prevail in Great Britain. The L.M.S. and Southern Railway announce that only the emergency service will be run this morning, with such additions as may be found practicable.

A notice posted at the London North-Eastern Railway stations yesterday notified the staff that at the conclusion of the strike the number of men that can be employed will be materially reduced. "The strike's effect on the country's trade must be to diminish substantially the traffic tonnage, and it will necessarily take a considerable time for trade to recover," says the notice, which adds that preference will be given to those men who remained at work, or who offer themselves for re-employment without delay.

In a number of places the men have decided not to resume work without guarantees on the question of victimisation.

Sheffield.—The railwaymen are determined not to return until all were reinstated unconditionally.

Hull.—Transport workers and railway men have decided not to resume work to-day.

Southampton.—A mass meeting of trade unionists decided not to return to work to-day pending the receipt of guarantees from the employers on the question of victimisation.

Canning Town and Poplar.—Considerable dissatisfaction was felt with the calling-off of the strike. Crowds paraded the streets last night, but were kept on the move by a large force of police. The dockers had withdrawn their pickets from the entrances to the various docks, but a large number of strikers congregated outside the gates, which remained closed.

Ilford.—Trade unionists decided, almost unanimously, to continue the strike in Ilford in all all trades. This action was a protest against the steps alleged to have been taken by the London and North-Eastern Railway to re-employ strikers on a new agreement, and against the action of the London General Omnibus Company refusing to reinstate the employés who had been in the hands of the police. The Rev. H. Dunnico, a Labour M.P., expressed the view to a Press representative that the difficulty would be overcome.

THE SPEECHES IN PARLIAMENT.

PRIME MINISTER'S STATEMENT

"VICTORY FOR COMMON-SENSE."

THE House of Commons yesterday was crowded when the Speaker took the Chair at a quarter to three o'clock. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York were again in the Peers' Gallery, which was completely filled. The Archbishop of Canterbury was a conspicuous figure among the peers.

When the Prime Minister entered there was a remarkable display of enthusiasm by his supporters. They rose en masse, and waved order papers and handkerchiefs, and cheered for some minutes. Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, Mr. J. H. Thomas, and other Labour leaders were also cheered as they entered the chamber.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald asked the Prime Minister whether he had any statement to make regarding the industrial situation.

PRIME MINISTER'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

Mr. Baldwin—The President of the Trades Union Council this morning came and told me that they have decided to call off the general strike forthwith. I said that it would be the immediate effort of myself and my colleagues to bring about a resumption of negotiations between the two parties of the mining dispute, with the view to securing the earliest possible settlement. I will only add this—The peace which has come at the moment is a victory for the common-sense, not of any one party, but of the whole of the people of the United Kingdom. It is of the utmost importance at a moment like this that the British people should not look backward, but forward. (Cheers.) We should resume our work in a spirit of co-operation, and put behind us all malice and vindictiveness.

A PLEA FOR DISCUSSION.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald—It must be obvious that certain consequences are likely to happen. The application of the large spirit which has been indicated by the Prime Minister necessitates that this House should be kept in close touch with the development of subsequent events. There are some observations which we should like to make, and I am perfectly certain that none of my friends sitting beside me and behind me desire to make a breach in the good feeling that the Prime Minister has suggested. We should like to be perfectly certain as to what is being done. That necessitates discussion. Has the Prime Minister considered what is the best time for a survey of the situation and the making of a fuller statement than he has made now?

FURTHER STATEMENT TO BE MADE.

Mr. Baldwin—I quite recognise that a further statement is necessary, as early as possible, but I am sure that my right hon. friend is aware that there is a very great deal to be done, and a great deal to be thought out, and, perhaps, he will allow me to keep in touch with him, to settle something in accordance with the convenience of the House. I am sure it will not be possible to make a statement to-day.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald—I shall be very happy to fall in with the suggestion of the Prime Minister, but much depends upon how this is represented. (Labour cheers.) I appeal to him to make arrangements, so that this House is kept in closest touch with everything which is being done, and to have this discussion at the earliest wise moment.

On the motion for the adjournment, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald said—I suppose it is not convenient, or possible, to make any further statement about anything that has happened since the House met.

Commander Eyres Monsell (Chief Whip)—The Prime Minister is not yet in a position to make any further statement.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald—Then we accept the situation quite whole-heartedly, and we do not propose to say anything further.

The House then adjourned.

THE GOVERNMENT AS MEDIATORS.

"NO NOTE OF TRIUMPH."

The Marquis of Salisbury, replying to Viscount Haldane in the House of Lords, said that the general strike came to an end at a quarter past twelve that day. (Cheers.) It was a matter of profound satisfaction to the Government, as it was to the whole country, that the dispute had terminated. The Government would once more revert to their rôle of mediators.

The Government were obliged to take a much more active part than that of mediation recently in resisting the general strike. That was their bounden duty. When the dispute became a general strike it was necessary for the Government to vindicate the authority of the law and of the constitution. He hoped that there was no note of triumph in his voice, and that there would be no note of triumph in the voice of any of their lordships. The Government were only too delighted and thankful that the principles of commonsense and the sentiment of legality

IRISH DOCKERS GO BACK TO WORK.

STEAMERS SAIL TO-DAY.

THE PARCEL POST RESTORED.

LABOUR LEADER PLEASED AT END OF STRIKE.

THE news that the general strike in Great Britain had been declared off was received in Dublin and all over the country with a feeling of intense relief.

When the first week did not bring peace many people thought that the struggle would last for a month or longer, and that Ireland would inevitably be drawn into it. The refusal of the dockers in Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, Drogheda and Londonderry to handle cross-Channel traffic was an ominous sign. The Labour leaders, it was recognised, were anxious that the trouble should not spread on this side of the Irish Sea, but it was thought that circumstances would be too strong for them.

NO UNFRIENDLINESS.

But things here had not gone too far. Mr. William O'Brien, Secretary of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, said to an Irish Times representative yesterday, shortly after the news of the calling off of the strike had come in: "I do not think that there was much unfriendliness on either side of the dispute in Dublin, and there certainly was no hostility down at the port.

"Everybody is well pleased at the termination of the strike in England," he added, "and, as far as we are concerned, the trouble at the docks will cease to-morrow (Thursday) and will be forgotten."

Mr. David Barry, general manager and director of the British and Irish Steam Packet Company, said that he was very glad to learn the news. He personally would bear no ill-will against the men, because he knew that it was none of their fault.

Mr. Thomas Johnson, leader of the Irish Labour Party, expressed great satisfaction that the general strike had come to an end. It came in the nick of time, he said, to save this country from becoming involved in the dispute, as would have happened in another few days.

"It would have been inevitable," he said, "and our people were very anxious to try to keep any trouble that arose, to each particular district only and to prevent it from spreading. We are glad that it is over."

Several well-known Dublin business men gave voice to the satisfaction felt in commercial circles at the end of the strike, which had been causing them great inconvenience and loss.

SAILINGS TO-DAY.

BIG SHIPMENTS OF CATTLE EXPECTED.

During the last nine days, whilst the strike was on, only three steamers left Dublin with cargoes of live-stock and dairy produce for England. In normal times the number of vessels to cross the Channel average fifty a week. Only two mail boats left Kingstown, and even Continental trade suffered slightly.

Messrs. Guinness despatched two of their steamers yesterday, one for Manchester and one for Liverpool. It is expected that they will send as many boats across to-day as is possible.

The British and Irish Steam Packet Company have arranged to sail two boats to-night for Liverpool, with full cargoes of live stock and dairy produce. The Lady Louth, which arrives in Dublin this morning from Liverpool, will make her return trip as per schedule, but, in addition, the Lady Wicklow will be run to cope with the demands for the transportation of live stock that is expected on account of the Dublin cattle market that is being held to-day.

The prospects for this market are good, and there will, in all probability, be an exceptionally good demand for the cattle and sheep. It is not thought that the prices paid will come up to the last market's level. In the case of well-finished stock it is possible that there will be a repetition of late rates.

SCOTTISH SERVICE.

The Burns and Laird Line will sail their first boat for Glasgow on Saturday, and will carry a general cargo of live stock, dairy produce, etc., and passengers.

The London, Midland and Scottish Company will sail a boat from the North Wall to-night, and a boat will probably sail from Holyhead for Dublin to-day.

Several vessels that have been held up in the port since last Tuesday week, on account of their inability to obtain supplies of coal for rebunkering, are expected to leave for their home ports to-day.

While the cross-Channel dockers are in high spirits at the resumption of work to-day, the coal dockers are not so elated, since there will be no resumption of the coal trade until the dispute in the English coal fields is settled.

POSITION AT KINGSTOWN.

Last Friday the dockers employed by the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company on the mail boats at Kingstown, carrying out the instructions of their union in England, refused to work on the R.M.S. Hibernia on her arrival from Holyhead with mails and passengers.

Instructions were received from the Union headquarters yesterday afternoon ordering the men to sign on for employment again to-day. Owing to some slight hitch occurring during the evening the order had to be cancelled, and the men were instructed not to apply to-day for reinstatement in their positions.

Mr. F. McDowell, traffic manager of the company in Dublin, told an Irish Times representative last night that he would prefer to make no statement on the matter for the moment.

Mr. Waters, Irish Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, also declined to make a statement.

It is expected that the matter will be cleared up to-day.

PARCEL POST TO-DAY.

The Department of Posts and Telegraphs announced that the parcel post service to and from Great Britain will be resumed to-day.

BELFAST DOCKERS

RETURN TO WORK LAST NIGHT.

Just before 6 o'clock last evening, the Belfast dockers presented themselves at the quayside to discharge the s.s. Heroic, from Liverpool, which had been berthed in the morning, with 50 tons of foodstuffs.

Owing to the lateness of the hour, and as the Heroic was not due to sail last night, the work of unloading the vessel was deferred till this morning.

The cross-Channel boat for Fleetwood left Belfast last night, with passengers, live stock and mails, but no cargo.

It was announced yesterday that, owing to the restricted train services in England, the Stranraer steamer would leave Larne Harbour at 2 o'clock p.m., instead of 7.12 o'clock p.m. to-day. The train to connect with the boat will leave Belfast at 12.45 o'clock p.m. As already announced the sailing will only take place on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

The Belfast Steamship Company announces that it is intended to resume normal services between Belfast and Liverpool this evening.

LONDONDERRY.

SAILINGS TO GLASGOW REDUCED.

Owing to coal shortage, the Imperial Government have reduced the sailings between Londonderry and Glasgow to two weekly, and have refused sanction for sailings between Londonderry and Heysham unless the steamer is coaled at Londonderry.

Normally there are four sailings to Glasgow every week.

Notwithstanding the calling off of the general strike, one Londonderry shirt factory and the collar department of another closed to-night, owing to the exhaustion of raw material supplies. A thousand workers are idle.

ANTICIPATION.

The Belgian Broid Lingerie Factory, Monaghan, employing some 150 hands, which had been closed since the beginning of the strike, as most of the business is transacted with the United Kingdom through the post, was re-opened yesterday.

The proprietor was so confident that the strike would end yesterday, that in the early morning he took the initial steps to set the factory going. The engines were at work before the news was received by wireless that the strike was over, and at two o'clock messengers were despatched on bicycles to bring in the workers. By 3.20 the entire factory was going full speed ahead.

IRISH FREE STATE.

EMERGENY POWERS.

BILL INTRODUCED IN THE DAIL.

In Dail Eireann yesterday afternoon President Cosgrave introduced the Protection of the Community (Special Powers) Bill, a measure in which it is proposed to confer on the Executive Council special powers for the protection of the community and the ensuring of the due supply and distribution of the essentials of life during national emergencies.

President Cosgrave said that from information he had received that afternoon the necessity for the measure was not so marked as it had been; but in connection with supplies in some parts of the country the measure might be immediately necessary. There was a shortage in at least three places. In one place it had been brought about by the idea getting abroad that it was necessary to get in stores, and, in consequence, stocks of essential commodities had been reduced. That placed merchants in a difficulty. A regular customer, if refused an extra quantity of goods, would transfer his custom to another merchant.

MERCHANT'S COMPLAINT.

A prominent merchant had put up that case to the Government; and the Bill would enable them to deal with such matters. It would give the Executive power which they had not at the present moment, and enable them to declare a national state of emergency. Under the Bill, Parliament, if not sitting, could be summoned within three, and in not more than five, days after the issue of the proclamation, regulations could be made for dealing with "profiteering" and hoarding.

Reports were made at the end of last week that some cases of "profiteering" had occurred. Hoarding was much more difficult to deal with. It might be necessary—he hoped it would not be—to exercise the power which ought to be in the hands of the Executive Council in special circumstances. They would all agree that it was quite possible that the supply of coal might be seriously interrupted; for the information that they were at the end of the general strike did not connote that the ordinary supply of coal would be available; and in that case it would be essential that the Executive Council should have power to take such steps as might be deemed advisable to ensure that neither "profiteering" nor hoarding would take place.

INOPPORTUNE.

Mr. Thomas Johnson said that, while he was not objecting to the general idea that for the protection of supplies for the community special provisions should be made, he felt that the occasion for introducing the bill was not well-timed. He had hoped that, in view of the happenings of the previous two or three hours, the Minister would have reconsidered his intention. He would have thought that the necessity of giving power to the Executive to prevent hoarding should not be one of acting by proclamation, but should be a normal power. The very fact that they were asked to pass the bill in a hurried way was much more likely to give occasion for panic in the country than if they said that the difficulty was passing and that there was no necessity for the special powers. He thought that they should have some further consideration of the bill.

President Cosgrave said that his statement might have given rise to a misconception. It was not a case of rivalry between two firms. It was a case of the merchant giving supplies, because, if he declined to do so, the business would leave him altogether.

Mr. Johnson asked whether such a case justified the proclamation of a state of national emergency.

President Cosgrave said that his information was that in the places to which he had referred there was a normal supply. What had occurred inside a week might spread rapidly, and what was the case in a town or village to-day might easily be a case of national emergency to-morrow. From the information received, he considered that it was the Government's duty to bring forward the measure.

Leave to introduce the bill was granted, and the second reading was fixed for to-day.

IRISH MAILS IN LONDON.

GENERAL DELIVERY OF LETTERS AND NEWSPAPERS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

LONDON, Wednesday.

People in the Irish Free State may be relieved to know that shoals of letters and newspapers from Ireland were delivered in London this morning, showing that there has been a complete clearance of the post. Letters and papers posted yesterday were delivered among others, and in future it is anticipated that there will be no delay. The Irish newspapers received give the finest story of the general strike seen on this side, since they were supplied with a full news service and able to print it. No London newspaper since Tuesday week has appeared, except in a very attenuated form, and with its news columns abbreviated.

Considerable improvement was shown to-day in the London postal service. Letters posted yesterday within a radius of about a hundred miles were delivered to-day, and arrears at the depôts are apparently being cleared. The dislocation, which was at its worst last week, was entirely due to inability to secure transport. All the delays occurred at the collecting end, and there was no difficulty with regard to deliveries once the letters had arrived at the delivery centres. At one suburban depôt, where about sixty postmen are employed, the principal delivery one day last week amounted to thirty letters—two postmen for each letter. These conditions have been remedied, however, and now the collections, transit and delivery of letters is being carried out with regularity, and with very little delay

FALL OF GERMAN GOVERNMENT.

SEQUEL TO FLAG INCIDENT.

BIG FASCIST PLOT DISCOVERED.

As the result of a vote of "No confidence" in Dr. Luther, Chancellor, the German Government has resigned.

The vote arose out of the flag incident at Wednesday's meeting of the Reichstag. It is regarded as the first step in a plot alleged to have been discovered by the police to effect a "coup d'état" and establish a dictatorship.

THE PLOT UNEARTHED.

REMARKABLE PLAN.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Wednesday.

Documents disclosing a new plot on the part of the German Fascisti to seize the reins of Government were unearthed by the Berlin police in raids last night on the head-quarters of the German Nationalist Associations—"Olympia" and "Viking." The most prominent leaders in the revolutionary uprisings in the past seven years—Ehrhardt, Buchrucker, and Dusterberg, who are supported indirectly by political leaders, such as Herr Hugenberg, Herr Nichlai, and Herr Grasie, are implicated in the new Fascist plots, according to the police statement to-day.

The first point in the programme of the Fascist coup d'état was to overthrow the Luther Government in the Reichstag on the question of the Republican flag. This was expected to lead to a dissolution of the Reichstag, in the course of which President Hindenburg was expected to proclaim a state of siege. The chiefs of the former secret Black Reichswehr intended to re-organise the troops, and under the latter's pressure the Democrats and Centrists were to be excluded from the German Cabinet.

HOW THE PLOT WAS DISCOVERED.

Many former members of the secret military organisations have been seen in the neighbourhood of Berlin's big barracks, and the manœuvre fields at Doeberitz recently—facts which gave the police the clues to the renewed activities of the Nationalists. It was then discovered that Buchrucker, former chief of the Black Reichswehr, who was supposed to be imprisoned in the fortress of Gollnow, had taken a week's "vacation," and had been conferring secretly with Captain Ehrhardt and Dusterberg in Berlin.

Upon the receipt of this information, all the headquarters of the Fascisti in Berlin were searched. The ultimate goal of the Fascists, as revealed in the confiscated plans, was to induce President Hindenburg to resign the Presidential post, a development which would enable a directorate of three prominent super-Nationalists to take the power of the country in hand. Herr Hugenberg, Nationalist member of the Reichstag, Germany's chief newspaper magnate, and Colonel Nicolai were supposed to share the honours of the dictatorship with the President of the Nationalistic Associations. The police believe that, through the sudden raids on the headquarters of the Fascisti, and on their homes, they have succeeded in paralysing all the efforts of the German Fascisti to organise a sudden coup d'état.

THE MINISTRY RESIGNS.

BERLIN, Wednesday.

The Reichstag to-day adopted a motion of "no confidence" in Dr. Luther, the Chancellor, regarding the dispute over the German national flag, by 176 votes to 146. There were 103 abstentions. The Cabinet afterwards resigned. The motion of "no confidence" was brought forward by the Democrats.

Later.

The crisis which has thus arisen, is due to a statement made by Dr. Luther in the Reichstag yesterday regarding the flag decree, which is regarded as utterly unsatisfactory by the Democratic Party.

The President accepted the Government's resignation, but requested the Cabinet provisionally to carry on the administration.

President Hindenburg may call upon Dr. Luther to form a new Cabinet.—(Reuter.)

HOUSING PROBLEM.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE'S OPINION.

When the Cumann na nGaedheal Convention reassembled in the Rotunda, Dublin, yesterday, under the chairmanship of Mr. J. J. Walsh, Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, there was a large attendance of delegates.

Mr. Traynor, Dundalk, proposed a motion requesting the Government to expedite the passing of a Town Tenants' Bill that would provide for security of tenure, fixing of fair rents, and the right to purchase at a fair price. It was time, he said, that something should be done for the tenants in towns, who had been paying rents for their houses for years, and were still in the same position, being without any machinery for fixing fair rents, or enabling them to become owners of the property which they occupied.

Mr. de Roiste, Cork, seconded the motion. He urged the inclusion in the bill of an alternative accommodation clause.

Mr. H. J. Walker, Athlone, pointed out that there was considerable difference between agricultural land and houses in towns. Persons who built town houses did so as a speculation, gave local employment, and should have security for the interest on their invested capital. The alternative accommodation clause in the present Act was very fair; but the restrictions, instead of benefiting the tenants, inflicted a hardship.

Mr. Sean Kavanagh, Kerry, expressed the view that the present legislation was impeding progress in the country; and but for the restrictions they would have more building.

THE PRESIDENT'S VIEW.

President Cosgrave, replying to the proposal, said that he presumed that the case made for the tenants in towns was that somebody was going to interfere with them, and that they were being exploited for rents in excess of an ordinary fair return for the capital invested. That might have been the case in pre-war days, but he was not aware that it existed to any great extent at present. The Government had given a million pounds in 1922 for housing, large sums being a free grant, and the local authorities, to enable the houses to be let at an economic rent, were empowered to levy a shilling rate. If that was what was intended by this motion, he would say that the country was not rich enough to afford it.

There was, he acknowledged, a distinct housing shortage in most towns, and there was a big housing problem in most of their cities and towns, but where, through his industry, hard work, and the application of his money and the assistance of his family, a man built up house property, he did not think it was reasonable that another man should be able to get possession of it.

The Government was providing money for persons or local authorities to build houses, but he regretted to say that there was no great activity in building. House-building was uneconomic because of the cost of building and labour, and the money laid out in constructing houses could not be recovered on their sale. There should be a better relation between the cost of building material and labour and the price subsequently obtained for the house, before the Act asked for in this motion could be justified.

The motion was withdrawn.

Mr. Sean Kavanagh (Co. Kerry) proposed that immediate attention should be given to the development of the mineral resources of the country.

Mr. Mooney (Drumshambo) seconded the motion.

Mr. P. J. M'Gilligan, Minister for Industry and Commerce, said that people would not put their money into such development schemes unless there was a prospect of a decent return. It was not the business of a Government to engage in mineral development with the money of the taxpayers. The matter was one for business men, to whom the Government might give facilities.

The principle of the motion was approved.

Economy and tariffs were the subjects of two further resolutions.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman brought the proceedings to a close.

THE SPEECHES IN PARLIAMENT.

so deeply ingrained in the minds of the English people had asserted themselves.

The Government, for their part, would resume the rôle of mediator. Their efforts to produce peace in the coal industry would be resumed without the least delay, and he hoped that they would result in a satisfactory settlement. (Cheers.)

Viscount Haldane said that he took no exception to the tone of the noble marquis. It was satisfactory to hear of the spirit in which the Government would enter on the task of negotiation.

A WORD OF WARNING.

The Earl of Oxford and Asquith said that their lordships would hear, with relief and intense gratification, the announcement made by Lord Salisbury. He agreed that this was not a moment for either recrimination or exultation, but he did not think that they would be discharging their duty if they did not express what all their lordships, and all classes of the community felt a sense of pride, and satisfaction at the patience, good temper and self-sacrifice that had been exhibited in all quarters. (Cheers.) He would only add one word of warning. They were not at an end of their troubles in this matter, and the exercise of those qualities would still be required in full measure in the weeks that were before them. (Cheers.)

The House rose at 4.10 p.m.

TRADE UNION STATEMENT.

AN HONOURABLE UNDERSTANDING.

LINES FOR SETTLEMENT OF MINE DISPUTE.

The General Council of the Trades Union Congress, which sat throughout yesterday afternoon, issued a statement last night to the effect that, through the magnificent support and solidarity of the trade union movement, they had obtained an assurance that a settlement of the mining problem could be secured, which justified them in bringing the general stoppage to an end.

The General Council felt that as a result of the conversations with Sir Herbert Samuel, and the proposals which were embodied in the correspondence and documents, sufficient assurances had been obtained as to the lines upon which a settlement could be reached, to justify them in terminating the general strike in order that the negotiations could be resumed to secure a settlement in the mining industry, free and unfettered from either strike or lock-out.

The statement points out that the unions that had maintained so resolutely and unitedly their generous and ungrudging support of the miners could be satisfied that an honourable understanding had been reached.

The General Council state that they accept the consequences of their decision with a full sense of their responsibility, not only to their own membership, but to the nation at large. They had endeavoured throughout the crisis to conduct their case as industrial disputes have always been conducted by British trades unions—without violence or aggression

WHAT THE COMMISSION RECOMMENDED.

The Coal Commission, over which Sir Herbert Samuel presided, in its report, declared that the complete reorganisation of the industry was the one way of return to prosperity.

The Commission rejected both the owners' remedy (longer working hours and less wages) and the miners' remedy (nationalisation). Its outstanding recommendations were:—

No subsidy after April 30.

Seven-hour day to remain.

Reduction of the minimum percentage addition to standard wages (fixed in 1924 "in a time of prosperity") to save the industry from "impending disaster."

Owners to seek in reorganisation and improved methods profits which this suggested reduction in the minimum percentage cannot give.

National agreements with varying district rates as at present.

The report urged that methods of ascertaining the proceeds of the industry should be revised.

MINERAL RIGHTS.

Further constructive recommendations to bring about reorganisation were:—

Acquisition by the State of coal and mineral rights, to be administered by a Coal Commission, under the Secretary for Mines.

The closing of certain uneconomic pits.

Amalgamation of many mines desirable and practicable, but the Commission did not advocate compulsory amalgamation, which "would be mischievous."

The Government to prepare plans to assist necessary transfer of labour on a considerable scale.

Reform of coal distribution.

The setting up of co-operative agencies, especially needed in the export trade.

Local authorities shall be given powers to engage in the retail sale of coal.

PROFIT-SHARING SCHEMES.

Important changes in the relations of owners and men were the subject of a series of further recommendations, which included:

The general establishment of joint pit committees.

Revision of payment to men not at the coal face to give them a direct interest in output.

Introduction of a family 'allowance system, with a pooling scheme to prevent married men with families being prejudiced in obtaining employment.

Profit-sharing schemes.

Pithead baths to be established generally.

The adequate provision for houses for the workers to be a condition of the leases of all new collieries.

Annual holidays, with pay, "when prosperity returns to the industry."

Generous support of research was urged.

The outstanding need, it was explained, was State aid for experiments, on a commercial scale, with low-temperature carbonisation. The Government's electricity scheme should be closely co-ordinated with the generation of electricity at the mines.

The Commission found that "the increase in the total margin required by the retail merchants and in their expenses is disquieting," and that the general result of a comparison with co-operative societies' figures suggested "that the expenditure of the retail merchants on establishment and clerical salaries is excessive."

The Commission declared that definite agreement on reorganization measures should precede any request for sacrifices from those engaged in the industry.

THE NEWS ABROAD.

FRENCH PRESS COMMENTS.

PARIS, Wednesday.

Commenting on the calling off of the general strike, the Journal des Débats describes it as "a great success for the British Government and for the cause of order generally," while the Liberté calls it "a slashing defeat for Socialism."

The Intransigeant declares that the British Government "has won the match," and says: "If the workers had approved and desired this general strike the forces arrayed by the Government would have been quickly engulfed, but the exact opposite has happened." The paper adds that everything has conspired to convince the faint-hearted that the Government was more powerful than their opponents. "A people which desires to be governed turns to the Government which guarantees peace, work, and bread."

The news of the end of the strike was received in British circles in Paris with profound relief. "What a victory for the Government!" was the invariable exclamation of those who heard the news.

Nothing is so far known here of any return to normal of the Southern Railway services. For the moment the reduced service which was in operation last week is being continued.—(Reuter.)

SATISFACTION IN DENMARK.

The Danish newspapers unanimously express their satisfaction that the strike in Great Britain has come to an end, saying that the whole world realises that what was being destroyed was of more value than anything that could possibly have been obtained by either party.

SERVICES TO BELGIUM.

GHENT, Wednesday.

The services with England are being resumed in a more or less regular fashion. The strike of the dockers has been, more or less, momentarily averted.—(Reuter.)

13,000 AT THE SHOW.

ANOTHER "RECORD" AT BALLSBRIDGE.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

SHEEP-DOG TRIALS A FEATURE.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

However deeply absorbed he might have been in study of the merits of various classes of live stock, no visitor to the Royal Dublin Society's Spring Show yesterday could avoid remark on a conspicuous new element in the assembly at Ballsbridge—the troops of school-children everywhere. The frequent showers only deepened the delight of the day for these youngsters; for, if they happened to be in the open when rain-drops started, the rush to the nearest hall and the consequent change of interest simply stimulated excitement.

MEDALS TO BE WON.

For children attending under the charge of a teacher the visit to the Show was counted as attendance at school. Such was the order of the Ministry of Education. Moreover, the children comprised in these parties will be able to compete for medals to be awarded by the Royal Dublin Society for best essays on their impressions of the Show.

In the morning parties of girls were the more noticeable. Are lessons taken more seriously in boys' schools? It looked as if the boys had been required to do two or three hours' work in school before they were escorted to Ballsbridge. It was towards the afternoon that they became prominent.

Plainly the children thought the Ministry's order a splendid idea, and they adopted it whole-heartedly. They bussed here and there, ready to be interested in anything and everything—balls and butter, rabbits and road materials, eggs and engines, pigs and poultry, sheep and silos. They clustered along the rails of the judging rings, and wormed themselves through ranks of grown-ups to get front places at the butter-making displays. They arrayed themselves on the grand stands and cheered all the announcements broadcast by Mr. Bohane, the Director, through the public-speaker apparatus. While their elders watched the champion sheep-dog displays with quiet wonder, the children were impatient for the moments when they might applaud the cleverness of the dogs in driving and penning sheep.

They enjoyed themselves, brightened the Show grounds, and were in nobody's way.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT BROADCAST.

Mr. Bohane, after announcing to the crowd in the jumping enclosure the news of the end of the general strike in Britain, told an interesting story of the efforts made to keep the engagement made for the sheep-dogs.

The owners of the dogs are Mr. Bagshawe, of Rotherham, Yorkshire, and Mr. Millar, whose address is in Scotland. Mr. Bagshawe, finding that he would be unable to reach Ireland by the usual means, started early last Saturday morning by motor car, and notified Mr. Bohane that he had got as far as Chester.

Thereupon, Mr. Bohane, knowing, as he said, that a Scotsman never allowed an Englishman to get the better of him, send word to Mr. Millar that Mr. Bagshawe was coming. Mr. Millar's reply by "wire" was—"And I am coming, too." Mr. Millar reached Stranraer on Sunday evening. Both owners got through to Ireland in time for the Show, bringing their dogs. Their "performance" in the jumping enclosure was fascinating and occasionally amusing.

JUDGES "HELD UP."

The transport checks had made some changes in the personnel of the judges necessary. Of the judges due from across-Channel, one from Scotland and one from England arrived. Others were unable to reach Dublin in time, but there is little doubt that their substitutes commanded general confidence.

BIGGER THAN EVER.

The Show is bigger than ever. All through the day there were so many things to be seen and heard that one hardly knew how to choose among the different points of interest. One could neglect the live stock exhibits altogether and still have a full day. The stands in the Central Hall and in the annexe make an attractive display. There, by the way, the children were busily collecting leaflets and souvenirs of all kinds. The floral displays were especially pleasing. Two bands were to be heard during the afternoon—a ladies' orchestra in the Central Hall and the Metropolitan Police Band on the Members' Lawn outside.

Machinery in motion and ornate motor bodies, among other things, made the paddocks lively and bright; and at the far end of the paddock the hall containing the educational exhibit was noted as a part of the Show that deserved more attention than could be spared in the course of an attempt to do the rounds in one day.

THE IMPROVEMENTS.

A few changes told of the continued endeavour of the Royal Dublin Society to improve its arrangements. The new entrance for members was in use, and took pressure off the general entrance, where the turnstile arrangements have been improved. The advantage of this change will be felt still more at the Horse Show.

In the jumping enclosure the two new stands—to right and left of the old main stand—have been completed and were occupied by hundreds of spectators yesterday. A new passage to and from the reserved enclosure has been opened at the Simmonscourt road end. The terracing of the banks on the general side of the enclosure has been extended.

Some of the minor halls have been improved, and here and there about the grounds new touches that increase comfort and sightliness are evident.

"RECORD" ATTENDANCE.

The Royal Dublin Society has caught public interest for its shows in no uncertain fashion. A few years ago no one would have expected the Spring Show ever to become a social event. The first day, in particular, used to be a severely "business" affair, drawing to Ballsbridge few besides persons with a direct interest in the live-stock exhibits. Yesterday afternoon, however, people were streaming in almost as if it were a Horse Show day. Persons who noted that, and compared the picture with their memory of former Shows, will not be surprised to learn that the official figures show a "record" attendance. The number returned for the day's admissions is 13,301.

That picture afforded a striking contrast with the remembrance, held only by a few persons, of the Spring Show of ten years ago, when judging was carried on while British troops marched past the Show grounds towards the city, and when residents in the neighbourhood, faced by food shortage, were glad to buy the butter that had been exhibited and the milk that had been taken from the dairy cows in the Show-yard.

Yesterday only the possibilities of ill-effects of the strike in Great Britain overshadowed the opening hours of the Show, and the day was not half gone when the good news arrived that the strike was over. Evidence of strike effects was of the smallest at Ballsbridge. So far as one noticed only one exhibitor had to announce that his display was incomplete owing to non-arrival of parts from England. Otherwise, there was only the substitution of new judges to indicate interference with the elaborate arrangements involved in the Spring Show.

Prize list and descriptions of the exhibits will be found on pages 10 and 11.

"OFFICERS' FRIEND" AT CORK.

Lieutenant-Colonel Holmes-Wilson, "Officers' Friend," British Ministry of Pensions, will be present at the Imperial Hotel, Cork, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and from 2 to 5 p.m., on Tuesday next, for the purpose of interviewing ex-naval and ex-military officers, nurses, widows, or the dependents of deceased officers, with a view to assisting them in getting their claims to pensions and gratuities settled.

This will be Lieutenant-Colonel Holmes-Wilson's last visit to Cork, as the British Ministry of Pensions is closing the "Officers' Friend" Branch, Southern Ireland, at the end of June.

At the last examination 19 of the 28 appointments offered were gained by pupils of ROSSE COLLEGE, Stephen's Green, Dublin. —(Advt.)

MILITARY REVOLT IN POLAND.

MARTIAL LAW IN WARSAW.

A military revolt has broken out in Poland. Detachments of troops from the region of Rembertow, adherents of ex-President Pilsudski, have refused to obey Government orders, and are marching on Warsaw with the object of overthrowing the new Government under M. Witos. The latter have taken energetic measures of defence, have declared martial law in the city, and, according to the latest message to hand from Warsaw, are masters of the situation.

It is further reported that the President of the Republic has gone to confer with the insurgent troops to try and persuade them to lay down their arms.

The garrison of the City of Warsaw is stated to be in favour of the Government, who declare that the "incident" can be regarded as settled.

CABINET IN SESSION.

No disorders have occurred and the Cabinet is sitting continuously.

Government buildings, bridges, telephone stations, and other important buildings are guarded by troops with machine guns.

The Radical Press states that Marshal Pilsudski's home has been attacked by an armed band, which was dispersed.

A Reuter message received yesterday morning states that despite the gravity of the incidents that have occurred the situation is regarded as being well in hand.

NORGE CROSSES THE POLE.

ITALIAN CABINET'S APPLAUSE.

ROME, Wednesday.

This morning Signor Mussolini received news that the "Norge" had crossed the Pole, and immediately he communicated the tidings to the Cabinet. The news was greeted with hearty applause for the daring members of the expedition, who have added fresh lustre to the glorious history of Italian exploration.

Colonel Nobile, the Italian Commander of the "Norge" sent a wireless message to the Governor of Rome earlier in the day, saying that the flag which the Governor had sent would fly to-day over the icy regions of the North Pole.—(Reuter.)

THE HOUR OF CROSSING.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

According to the correspondent of the New York Times at King's Bay, Spitzbergen, the "Norge" crossed the North Pole at 1 a.m. to-day (Norwegian time).—(Reuter.)

STOCKHOLM, Wednesday.

The Boden wireless station states that it was in communication with the airship "Norge" during the night. At 2 o'clock this morning the flight had so far been successful, and it may be presumed that the "Norge" then crossed the North Pole. Telegrams to the newspapers here show that at midnight the "Norge" had reached latitude 80 degs. north, longitude 12 degs. It was misty and a slight breeze was blowing. The temperature was 10.4 Fahrenheit. The airship was travelling at a height of 2,360 feet.—(Reuter.)

NOME, ALASKA, Wednesday.

Mr. C. J. Lomen, the Norwegian Consul at Nome, has received a wireless message from Captain Amundsen asking him to have 100 men in readiness here to haul down the Norge on arrival, as he intends to deflate the airship here after her Polar flight, and send her to the United States by steamer.—(Reuter.)

PROPOSED FLIGHT TO SOUTH POLE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

OSLO, Wednesday.

A dispatch from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to-day states that Commander Byrd, who on Sunday successfully flew to the North Pole and back by aeroplane, is leaving King's Bay to-morrow, in his aeroplane, to search for two Norwegian fishing boats which have been reported lost for five weeks. On returning from this search, Commander Byrd will lead a mapping expedition to Greenland. For next year he is planning an expedition to the South Polar regions by aeroplane. In it three machines will be used.

SOUTH AFRICA AND IRISH CATTLE.

EMBARGO REMOVED.

The High Commissioner for the Union of South Africa in London has been notified by his Government that the embargo imposed on November 17, 1925, on the importation of cattle, sheep, pigs and goats into the Union from Great Britain and Ireland has been relaxed so far as Scotland and Ireland are concerned.

As from April 30 last, live stock from Scotland and Ireland, provided that it has been in one of those countries thirty days prior to shipment, and is shipped from one of those countries direct, will be admitted into the Union. Live stock exported from Ireland or the Channel Islands may be transhipped at a Scottish port.

The importation into the Union of cattle, sheep, pigs and goats from England and Wales is still prohibited.

"HELP YOURSELVES."

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS DURING STRIKE.

Sir John Pringle, for the Ministry of Transport, held an enquiry at Edinburgh yesterday concerning the train collision on the London and North-Eastern Railway near Edinburgh on Monday, when three persons were killed.

Major Stamp, Operating Superintendent, London and North-Eastern Railway, said that while they were unaware of how many persons were in the wreckage, an appeal was made to the strikers congregated near the scene for men to act as a breakdown gang "for humanity's sake." The men told the officials to help themselves.

Sir John Pringle reserved his decision.

A verdict of "accidental death" was returned at the inquest at Bishops Stortford yesterday on Mr. Harry Burrell (65), land agent to Sir Walter Gilbey, whose body was found under the wreckage after the railway collision at Bishops Stortford Station on Monday.

The jury added a rider that no blame attached to any railway man on duty.

The Coroner said that this had a hidden meaning.

AFTER THE STRIKE.

The news that the strike had been settled was chalked on the pavements in Manchester, and thousands of men loitering about the streets quickly conveyed it to their friends.

In Shropshire the railwaymen rushed home to don their uniforms.

Crowds of women and girls, who had lined up outside Leicester Labour Exchange to draw the dole held an impromptu dance when they heard the strike was over.

In Barnsley there was some excitement when a motor 'bus appeared on the street and a crowd gathered. A local labour leader, who happened to be in the vicinity, mounted the 'bus, told the crowd "it was all over," and everybody went away pleased.

The news occasioned rejoicing in Jersey, especially among the farmers, who had been badly hit through the difficulty of despatching their early crop.

At Bristol the Lord Mayor announced the news to a Wesleyan gathering, which sang the Doxology.

With to-day's issue "The British Gazette" will cease to exist. It winds up an account of its birth and brief career with the words: "'The British Gazette' may have had a short life, but it has fulfilled the purpose of living."

The L.C.C. is granting three days' additional holiday to their teachers in recognition of their faithful service during the strike.

The Prince of Wales visited Scotland Yard yesterday afternoon and viewed the quarters allotted to the special constables.

London hospitals are resuming normal conditions.

The annual conference of the British Legion will begin in London, as arranged, on Whit Sunday. It is expected that the Prince of Wales or the Duke of York will be present.

WELFARE OF DUMB ANIMALS.

PLEA FOR HUMANE TREATMENT.

BETTER TREATMENT OF CATTLE.

Mr. David Barry, speaking in the Molesworth Hall, Dublin, last evening in connection with the Animal Welfare Week, referred to the treatment of cattle in transit. It had now been proved, he said, after a year's experience of the Order issued by the Minister for Agriculture in September, 1924, that cattle had arrived at the British ports and markets in a condition they never showed before.

Having dealt with what he termed inspired stories concerning the condition in which Canadian cattle arrived in the English market, Mr. Barry declared that, if the farmers and all those interested in cattle would only be honest with themselves, and see that their cattle were put on the market in the best possible condition, they would beat the world, because they had the goods.

HANDLING OF LIVE STOCK.

BENEFICIAL ORDERS.

The main subject for the evening meeting, at which Mr. Lloyd Christian presided, was "Transit of Cattle and Live Poultry."

Mr. David Barry said that he thought that in Ireland especially there was no subject which required more elucidation or more education amongst the general classes of our people than the subject of kindness to dumb animals. It was, unfortunately, true that no matter where one went, where animals were being handled, there was—he wanted to say it charitably—an unconscious amount of cruelty carried on by everyone during the handling of such animals. A great deal had been done in recent years towards the prevention of ill-treatment and cruelty to cattle and other animals during transit, both in Ireland and in the course of transit to the British markets.

THE INQUIRY COMMISSION.

It must be evident to everyone that the some 700,000 cattle and many thousands of sheep and pigs on an average which are transported every year to the British markets could not possibly all be handled without some amount of cruelty, but in saying that he did not want it for a moment to be thought that dumb animals are not looked after with great carefulness. He might say that their welfare was the anxious care of the carrying and shipping companies, and of Government inspectors, and of everyone interested in the care of cattle. He claimed some credit for being, at any rate, partially the means of a decision which was arrived at by the Minister for Lands and Agriculture last year, to form a Committee or Commission to examine the grounds for complaint as to the actual handling of live stock from the time they left the farms until they were landed at the British ports.

As the result of the unanimous findings of that Committee or Commission, the Government had issued certain new regulations, which had the effect of legally governing the transit of animals, as well as their care in Ireland, right up to the port of shipment and getting them aboard the ships. It was only fair on his part publicly to state that the Minister for Agriculture and the Minister for Justice had not even waited for the recommendations of that Committee before taking some action on their own account to remedy the grievances already known to them.

A BENEFICIAL ORDER.

Dealing with what had been done, Mr. Barry referred to the order that was issued in September, 1924, by the Minister for Lands and Agriculture that animals arriving at an Irish port for shipment must be fed during their compulsory detention for inspection, and said that that order was the best that was ever issued by any Irish Department for reasons that he was sure they would all appreciate. It had now been proved, after a year's experience of the order, that cattle had arrived at the British ports and markets in a condition they never showed before. (Applause.)

He did not know any subject that was more beneficial in some respects, and more interesting, and one that demanded more education of the general public than the humane treatment of dumb animals. He had discussed the whole question with Government officials of all kinds interested in their Department of Agriculture, and the one conclusion always come to was that it was a very painful thing to have to say that Irishmen should be compelled to be kind to dumb animals, but he was afraid that that truth had to be admitted, because until that order he had referred to was promulgated, no owner of stock would ever have thought of giving a handful of hay to a beast on its way across. Now the order was working like clockwork, and there were no complaints about it.

Several new orders had since been issued and were having a good effect on the welfare and transit of cattle. The Department issued posters which had been spread broadcast throughout the Free State on the subject of cruelty to the animals, and warning people of heavy penalties if they broke the law. He was very pleased to say that within recent months the police had been very vigilant at all places where cattle were handled, and many heavy fines had been inflicted for cruelty. (Applause.)

THE ASHPLANT TO GO.

There were certain recommendations of the Committee which had not yet been carried into effect, and he thought he was giving away no secret when he said that the ashplant would be abolished and the London goad stick—which gave the minimum of what he might call necessary cruelty—substituted. He was hopeful that the Government would institute a law making it illegal to lift a stick to beat an animal in any part. Another recommendation was that all drovers should be licensed and wear an armlet with a number, so that there could be no evasion on their part when cruelty took place.

They had heard a good deal about Canadian cattle and the condition in which they were landed at British ports, as compared with Irish cattle. It did not need him to tell them of the statements that many of these reports were inspired deliberately to injure Irish cattle by those interested in Canadian cattle. He invited his hearers to come down any day that cattle were being shipped at Dublin and see for themselves how the animals were treated; but, after all, there was room for improvement everywhere. He did say—and he said it with the greatest respect for the Irish language—that, if half the money that was being spent in teaching Irish was spent in teaching our boys and girls in school to be kind to dumb animals, far better work would be done, and far better results for the money would be obtained, and no ratepayer would begrudge it. (Applause.)

IRELAND'S OPPORTUNITY.

Reverting to an interview with Mr. Harold Brown, one of their best known English shippers, which he had read in the Irish Times, on the improvement of Irish cattle during the last six months, Mr. Barry said that, if the farmers and all those interested in cattle would only be honest with themselves, treat their cattle properly, feed them properly, and see that they were put on the market in the best possible condition, they could beat the world, because they had the goods. (Applause.)

The Government inspectors alone, added Mr. Barry, were responsible for the way the animals were put on the ships, and they did their duty in a very creditable manner, indeed. He would like to see the Government go a little further in their regulations, and take a leaf out of the Canadian Government's book in regard to the transit of cattle. He would like to see a minimum detention period of 24 hours where cattle were brought from far inland to the ports. Anything that tended to this great national industry would always have his warm-hearted support. (Applause.)

Miss Hillis, hon. secretary, N.S.P.C.A., Dublin, asked for more assistance by the public for the police in detecting cases of cruelty. It was to be hoped that all interested in animals would purchase copies of the Protection of Animals Acts, in order that they might find out how they can help the Society to carry out their work.

Captain Finch, Nenagh, said that every decent man and woman should take an interest in the welfare of dumb animals.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman was passed on the motion of Mr. P. Leslie Pielou, seconded by Mr. Grey.

THE PARENTS' DUTY.

Professor Mary Hayden, M.A., lectured on "Humanitarianism and Christianity" in the afternoon.

Owing to illness, Mr. J. G. Swift MacNeill, M.A., K.C., was unable to attend, and Mr. H. V. Crawfurth Smith presided.

Dealing with the necessity for the education of children in the care of animals, Miss Hayden said that parents allowed their children to indulge in bird-nesting and rat-catching, and so learn to make a sport of the torment of animals. Those who ill-treated animals did so largely because they had no imagination.

U.S. MARKETS.

FLOOD OF BUYING ORDERS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Stocks opened firm, and the news of the termination of the strike in Great Britain and the strength of sterling exchange brought a flood of buying orders, and shorts covered actively. General Electric and Dupont gained 5 and Standard Rails and Industrials 1 to 3 points. Before noon, however, the gains were materially reduced or cancelled when large blocks of Motors and Motor Accessories were sold, owing to a growing belief that the industry would not be able to maintain the high sale "record" of recent months. Several Motor Issues touched the year's lowest prices, and thereafter trading dwindled, but the easing of call money rates checked the selling, and induced fresh buying of Railroads and Industrials, wherein sharp advances were registered. The market closed firm. Government Bonds steady; Railroad Bonds firm. The day's sales totalled 1,010,000 shares.

Money on call closed steady, at 3½ bid and 3¾ p.c. asked. Business was done during the day at from 3½ to 4 p.c., with the ruling rate 4 p.c. The last loan was made at 3½ p.c. Sterling exchange firm. Silver unchanged at 65⅛.

LETTERS TO

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

SIR,—May I say that I heartily endo[rse] Lord Glenavy's suggestion that a meeting [of] subscribers should be called at an early d[ate] to see if something cannot be done to g[ive] some measure of immediate relief to th[e] old soldiers who are at present in d[istress]? I do think that before we spe[nd] £40,000 on a memorial for the dead we oug[ht] to take into account the realities of t[he] situation and do something for the living [as] well.—Yours, etc., JAMES C. PERCY.

Ardenvohr, Cowper road, Dublin,

May 12th, 1926.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Now that the plea of Lord Glenav[y] has forcibly called for a reconsideration [of] the War Memorial, I wish to make two su[g]gestions of a practical nature.

A housing scheme was proposed by me t[o] the Committee four years ago; and it offe[red] an evident means of supplying work t[o] ex-Service men, houses for them, and th[e] surplus income from rents for relief of thos[e] permanently disabled who may be with u[s] for the next thirty years. I offered then t[o] build the houses, but the Soldiers' an[d] Sailors' Trust is now in existence and ca[n] efficiently use its experience.

Stocks opened firm, and the news of the ermination of the strike in Great Britain nd the strength of sterling exchange brought flood of buying orders, and shorts covered ctively. Before noon, however, the gains were aterially reduced or cancelled when huge locks of Motors and Motor Accessories were old, owing to a growing belief that the in-ustry would not be able to maintain the igh sale "record" of recent months. Several Motor Issues touched the year's lowest prices, nd thereafter trading dwindled, but the asing of call money rates checked the sell-g, and induced fresh buying of Railroads nd Industrials, whereon sharp advances were egistered. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE NATIONAL WAR MEMORIAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I say that I heartily endorse Lord Glenavy's suggestion that a meeting of subscribers should be called at an early date to see if something cannot be done to give some measure of immediate relief to those old soldiers who are at present in dire distress? I do think that before we spend £40,000 on a memorial for the dead we ought to take into account the realities of the situation and do something for the living as well.—Yours, etc.,

JAMES C. FEELY.

Ardenvohr, Cowper road, Dublin,
May 12th, 1926.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Now that the plea of Lord Glenavy has forcibly called for a reconsideration of the War Memorial, I wish to make two suggestions of a practical nature.

A housing scheme was proposed by me to the Committee four years ago; and it offers an evident means of supplying work to ex-Service men, houses for them, and the surplus income from rents for relief of those permanently disabled who may be with us for the next thirty years. I offered then to build the houses, but the Soldiers' and Sailors' Trust is now in existence and can efficiently use its experience.

A Hall of Song could be erected in Dublin, on a vacant site in Sackville street, such as is often yearned for by the Feis Ceoil Committee. One built on the model of the Central Hall in Birmingham would be most useful for large concerts and gatherings. The walls could contain records of the heroes that died. Many a window or panel light might also commemorate them. Rooms and offices would accommodate headquarters for the kindred organisations, and here, on November 11th, they would have a common meeting place. Rentals for the use of the building could supply a surplus fund for relief of cases in distress, as before.—Yours, etc.,

THE DUBLIN HOSPITALS. LETTER FROM SIR WILLIAM TAYLOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In the account of the proceedings at the annual general meeting of the governors and supporters of Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital held yesterday, at which the Governor-General took the chair, I am reported as stating that "I had proposed to the Rockefeller Endowment Trust a grant of a million and a quarter dollars, the sum granted to University College Hospital, London, with the arrangement that about one-third of the amount might be spent on building and equipment. . . . With that sum they could establish a hospital, with 700 or 750 beds, as a really national institution." What I did say was that, as Chairman of the Committee of the proposed amalgamation scheme, I had asked the Rockefeller Trust representative for the sum of £1,250,000—a sum equal to that given to the University College Hospital, London, some three years ago; and that we should be permitted to expend about 40 per cent. of that sum on buildings and equipment—conditions similar to those under which the University College Hospital, London, grant was given.

I may be permitted here to state, for the information of the public, that not only are the various members of the medical staffs of the five hospitals it is proposed to amalgamate agreed, but the governing bodies of the hospitals are also in agreement upon the principle of amalgamation, the only condition being that the necessary money for the accomplishment of the project should be forthcoming. The economic advantages of such an amalgamated hospital will be obvious to the public who support our charitable institutions, while the educational advantages to the newly qualified medical men and to the students in our medical schools would be incapable of estimation.

The public, in the long run, would benefit to the greatest extent, because they would then be treated by more practically trained medical practitioners, who would have seen and studied diseases in groups, and not in isolated cases, as at present.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM TAYLOR.

A WORLD VIEW OF THE BRITISH STRIKE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The outside civilised world, as a whole, cares little about the special industrial question involved, but a good deal about the constitutional question, with its deep international significance. In this latter connection there is one feature of the general strike which has amazed foreign opinion, eclipsing all else. That is, the innate and extraordinarily highly developed sense of public order of the mass of the British people, including, of course, the strikers themselves. Postal delays have deprived Dublin of any European newspapers more recent than the Paris publications of last Saturday, but they suffice. Their London correspondents are simply lost in admiration of the political stability of the British people. One journalist, looking at it from the French point of view, tells his readers with astonishment: "This general strike is, like football, being played strictly according to rule. Four days have already passed and not one single firearm has yet been discharged."

To-morrow or the next day we shall have a chorus of opinion, toned to the same note, from every country in Europe, and, no doubt, also from the United States, of each and all of whom Great Britain is, not from any moral superiority, but from far longer constitutional practice and devolution of practical political responsibility amongst the people, out and away their superior. Observant students who have had an opportunity of measuring, approximately, the differences in the progress of political education amongst different modern peoples see in the recent manifestation of the political wisdom and restraint of the British people nothing surprising; but the mass of outside civilised opinion has been simply staggered by it.

Only an internal crisis such as that which the problem of the mining industry recently evoked could have put to the test and established, in view of the whole civilised world, the intrinsic value of this incomparable political asset of the British State. As against the material loss which that crisis has caused must be set the world-wide, and far more important, enhancement of British prestige, in which the plain story of the past nine days cannot but result. It places the British people on a pedestal amongst all civilised peoples as a model of political stability, order, restraint and, in one word, wisdom—a model for one and all of us to endeavour to copy. More than that, it cannot but have a stabilising effect on the entire European Continent in demonstrating that, as against the disintegrating forces of Bolshevism, the British people stand invincible, the main bulwark and guarantee for European civilisation.—Yours, etc.,

LABOUR AND STRIKES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Some time ago I had the privilege of making a week-end retreat at Rathfarnham Castle, which is under the care of the Jesuit Fathers. The Rev. Father Barrett, S.J., who conducted the retreat, in a lecture on the relations of Labour and Capital explained the doctrine of strikes so clearly and so briefly that the publication of it at this present moment, when so many rush into strikes without counting the cost, will, I believe, be most useful.

"Strikes," said the lecturer, "are never lawful except certain conditions are present." These conditions are:—First, the advantages sought by the workers are ones to which they have a just claim. Second, a peaceful solution of the difficulties must have been tried and found ineffectual. Third, the grievances complained of must outweigh the evil results that are likely to follow from the strike. Fourth, there must be good grounds for hoping that the strike will be successful.—Yours, etc.,

THE FREE STATE TARIFF COMMISSION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—President Cosgrave, in his speech at the Cumann na nGaedheal Convention yesterday, said: "Let it be clearly understood that the Commission will have nothing to do with existing tariffs" That is somewhat astonishing. If there is one task which a real Tariff Commission would discharge, surely it would be to watch the operation of existing tariffs, to ascertain how they effect the purpose for which they were instituted, and to recommend their continuance, modification, expansion or other alteration according as the interests of the State and the needs of our industries required. This statement of the President furnishes proof that the body to be set up is not a Tariff Commission, and in addition makes clear that neither the President nor those responsible for the proposal have yet grasped what are the essential functions of a Tariff Commission.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the important economic interests which are involved in this matter will not be further jeopardised by a continuance of the muddled thinking which has attended it so far. The President spoke of the necessity of clearing our minds of confused thinking. That is a consummation devoutly to be wished.—Yours, etc.,

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, GALWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Governing Body has been informed that many people are under a misapprehension regarding the extent to which Irish will henceforth be a medium of teaching in this College, and that, as a result of such misapprehension, students may be deterred from entering. It has, therefore, adopted the following resolution, and has directed me to send copies thereof to the Press and to the heads of secondary schools:—

"That, while it is hoped that lectures on certain subjects will be given in the near future through the medium of Irish to students who may desire to attend them, attendance at such lectures will in no case be compulsory; and that instruction will be given in English on all subjects until the body of students of the first year in at least one faculty are able to follow with advantage lectures given through the medium of Irish."

RAIL FACILITIES FOR FISHERMEN.

GOOD NEWS FOR BALTIMORE.

An 8.40 a.m. train from Baltimore ex Skibbereen is to be run for the convenience of fishermen and fish merchants, starting on May 17th next.

An intimation to this effect has been sent to the Irish Fishermen's Association by the General Manager of the Great Southern Railways, who adds that the service will be experimental.

Mr. Keogh further writes:—"The London, Midland and Scottish Railway were approached some little time ago on the subject of the restoration of facilities previously enjoyed, under which it was practicable to divert fish at Holyhead, so as to secure the best market, but they were unable at that time to agree to the restoration of the arrangement. The company is again being approached on the matter."

The early train about to be started should prove a boon to the fishermen and merchants who use Baltimore as a landing and forwarding port, while the restoration of the facilities formerly afforded at Holyhead would tend to increase and stabilise their "freshing" trade in cross-Channel markets.

AFFAIRS OF BRIGADIER-GENERAL CROZIER.

EXAMINATION IN BANKRUPTCY.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Wednesday.

The public examination took place to-day in the Bankruptcy Buildings, Carey street, W.C., of Brigadier-General F. P. Crozier, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. The debtor was represented by Mr. Jeremiah MacVeagh, instructed by Mr. J. H. MacDonnell, solicitor. The official receiver stated the debtor's financial position, and in re-examination by Mr. MacVeagh, General Crozier stated that one of the contributing causes of his insolvency was the publication of a book containing defamatory statements, and including documents surreptitiously obtained from the War Office, as had been admitted this week in the House of Commons by the Secretary of State for War. He had been Divisional Commissioner of the Royal Irish Constabulary, and Commandant of the Auxiliary Division, better known as the "Black-and-Tans." He issued a writ against the authors and publishers of the book, received an apology, and the book was withdrawn from circulation, but, owing to the inadequacy of financial resources he had to settle out of Court. The book had previously been widely circulated, and acted as a bar to his getting employment. Only two creditors were pressing, the total amount being under £400. Only that week the British Government had paid on behalf of the Irish Office a claim by him. This payment had been suspended for over four years, and if it had been paid promptly he might have been enabled to avoid bankruptcy proceedings.

The Registrar said that no further investigation was necessary, and he, therefore, declared the public examination closed.

LITTLE hands clamouring for the delicacies, eyes eager with anticipation. All the evening they have been whispering about the frozen desserts hidden in the Frigidaire. And lo! "Here they come." Better and more delicious than their wildest dreams of iced joys. And when it's all over, and the little feet have toddled through the hall, you realise that the Frigidaire so providentially installed has been the making of the children's party.

Frigidaire is an automatic electric refrigerator, available to every electrically wired home. Frigidaire maintains a constant, crisp, dry cold—preventing food decay and the development of harmful bacteria. The Spring Show

YESTERDAY'S attendance at the first day of the Spring Show at Ballsbridge exceeded all previous records by a substantial margin. The total number of persons who passed the turnstiles was

13,301

The following are the figures for the previous years since 1919:—

1925	8,332
1924	6,803
1923	5,305
1922	4,430
1921	No Show.
1920	4,740
1919	3,646

Another remarkable feature of yesterday's attendance was that 4,225 of those attending are members of the Royal Dublin Society. The number of members present on the first day of last year's Show was 1,671.

The attendance yesterday included 1,500 school children in charge of their teachers.

To test the observation of the children the Royal Dublin Society is offering gold, silver and bronze medals for essays on various aspects of the Show. The test will not permit of preparation, as it is intended that the pupils shall receive a sealed envelope with the title of the subject on which they are to write according to age.

To-morrow arrangements have been made for the visit of 4,000 school children under similar conditions. A lively interest was taken in the proceedings by the juvenile visitors yesterday. The prize-winning essays will be displayed in a special gallery at the Horse Show.

CATTLE CLASSES.

WELL-BRED STOCK.

SHORTHORNS.

After a succession of bull shows and sales at which the stock forward are seldom in show condition, a visit to the Ballsbridge Showyard is certainly stimulating. It enables one to see to what perfection well-bred stock can be brought by proper management, and brings out the keenest rivalry between successful breeders. In this direction lies improvement in the general live stock of the country.

With a total of 197 entries, Shorthorns have been divided this year into sections for beef and dairying strains. The result has been extremely interesting. In the beef section we find the champion award—namely, the Phœnix Cup, again going to Mr. Isaac

Mr. Isaac A. Smith's (Belfast) Westside Coaxer, Champion Beef Shorthorn Bull.

Smith, Belfast. This coveted trophy he secured with Westside Coaxer, a strong ribbed three-year-old red, of great substance, bred in Scotland, and sired by Dargill Clarmount. He also captured the Shorthorn Society's champion prize for bulls. The reserve champion beef bull was Mr. J. W. Jennings' four-year-old Kilkea Captain, a level, good-quartered red, of the Crocus family, by Butler of Damside. Mr. A. Cameron had an outstanding winner among two-year-old Shorthorn bulls in the level, grandly-topped red, Inverton Cupbearer, by Captivator. Lord Rathdonnell's exhibit scored well in the younger two-year-old bull class, while Mr. J. R. Barbour, of Co. Sligo, led in the class for yearling bulls with Farm Hill Advocate.

In the female beef Shorthorn class Mr. Isaac Smith's Carntall Rachel 2nd sustained her already high reputation by standing reserve for the champion female prize. She is a matron of great style and substance, and was much admired. For female championship of the breed, Mr. B. H. Barton's Straffan Gratia was selected. This is a sweet-looking yearling heifer, sired by Kilkee Legion, and was placed reserve for the Phœnix Cup.

Amongst the dairy Shorthorn bulls, the Earl of Bessborough came to victory with that grandly brought out son of Polonius, Bessborough Challenger 2nd, a roan of great symmetry and substance. He also carried off the Silcock Cup. Reserve for both distinctions went to Mr. J. J. Armstrong's nicely brought out roan, Patrick Broadhooks. Captain T. A. Clarke's Farran Homely, a well-balanced roan, 954-gallon cow, accounted for the Dairy Shorthorn Association's champion prize, just defeating Mr. W. J. Shannon's Bessbrook Garnish. In these classes competition ruled keen, and in addition to the prizes a large number of tickets were awarded.

ABERDEEN-ANGUS.

Although slightly smaller than last year, the display of Aberdeen-Angus cattle was good. A notable feature was the fine muster of stock from the herd of Mr. R. C. Williams,

Mr. R. Wallace's (Borrisoleigh) Irish Champion, first prize winner in Class for Irish Draught Stallions.

Macroom. With his two-year-old heifer, Pianette of Coolcower, Mr. Williams carried off the championship of the breed. As well as the female championship, while he secured the male championship with Blariot of Ballindalloch. He also repeated his victory of a year ago in regard to the cup for the best pair of Aberdeen Angus heifers and a group of four specimens of the breed. As they appeared before Professor Wilson, the blacks made a most impressive display.

HEREFORDS.

A former Shorthorn enthusiast, Mr. G. E. Moore, Athboy, accounted for the Hereford Challenge Cup and Champion Silver Medal with Queen of the May, a typical Hereford cow of his own breeding, the reserve for these honours going to Mr. J. H. Wallace for Thornville Endeavour.

KERRIES.

Kerry cattle held their own numerically, and good quality was displayed by the exhibits on the whole. Mr. A. R. Vincent secured the male championship with a bull of splendid type in Muckross Thor, the same exhibitor accounting for the Talbot de Malahide Cup for a choice group.

JERSEYS.

This valuable milking breed brought out competition, and the Cup for the best two-year-old heifer went to Mr. W. H. Odlum for his well-bred Ardmore Rosebud.

FRIESIANS.

The big-framed British Friesians were forward in greater strength than usual, stock being shown from herds in the North and South. Taken altogether the exhibits showed a fair level of merit.

ABERDEEN-ANGUS ASSOCIATION.

Mr. R. C. Williams was yesterday re-elected President of the Irish Aberdeen-Angus Association. Vice-Presidents—Lord Kenmare, Messrs. J. E. St. George, E. J. Clarke, and H. A. J. Kyle. Mr. B. Young was appointed Secretary. A presentation is to be made to Mr. George Clarke, the late Secretary.

A plaintiff in a title case at Longford told Judge Roche that two witnesses would not come to court, as their houses, they stated, would be burned if he (plaintiff) won his case.

AGRICULTURAL HORSES.

IRISH DRAUGHT STALLIONS.

One does not look for many agricultural horses nowadays at the Spring Show, nor can the blame for that be put at the door of the Royal Dublin Society. This time they were represented by a fine class of Irish Draught Stallions, the proviso being that these latter were entered in the Department's Stud Book.

Five were in competition, and the day saw the overthrow of Mr. Larkin's well-known grey, Kildare, the victor often before at the Spring, as well as at provincial shows. The picture of an Irish draught horse still, his thirteen years sit lightly on him—actually he is in his prime as a sire—he had now to give way to his own son, Mr R. Wallace's Irish Champion, who looks like emulating his progenitor's fame. Irish Champion has great bone, and is the beau ideal of his breed. Shown first two years ago, then a three-year-old, at Clonmel, he took first in his class. At the Spring Show last year he was placed second to his sire, and now was put ahead of him. Mr. J. McNamara received the third prize for the six-year-old, Shannon Prince, while the reserve went to Mr. P. Behan for the aged Black Prince. There was much to like in Mr. Martin's Irish Life, who received the v.h.c.

SHEEP.

HIGH QUALITY OF EXHIBITS.

The Long Wools did not produce large classes, but there was no questioning the high quality of the sheep on exhibition. Mr. Harry Franks had a walk-over in the class for Border Leicester two-shear rams or upwards, and the same thing happened, he taking all three prizes, in that for shearling rams of like breed, and carried off also the Challenge Cup and Breed Champion Silver Medal.

Mr. John Keane did the same with Roscommons, in which breed he annexed five firsts, five seconds and three thirds, his own special prize for the breed, and the Perpetual Challenge Cup for the best group of long-woolled sheep.

An unfortunate incident marred the competition in the Lincolns. The breed had five classes, which four owners—viz., Miss A. H. Norris (Nenagh) and Messrs. P. Canty, P. O'Brien and W. Kinsella (all of Co. Wexford)—had supported. The judge first chosen not being able to attend, the Society called upon the next judge on the list—Mr. W. Gleeson, of Nenagh—than whom none is better qualified in the country to adjudicate. But the County Wexford exhibitors refused to show under him and withdrew, or rather withheld, their sheep. The Society, therefore, had no option but to stand by their judge and go on with the classes, and this left Miss Norris's exhibits with the field to themselves. They captured five firsts, four seconds and one third, and also the Challenge Cup for the breed.

There were larger classes with the Short Wools. In Shropshires the principal exhibitors were Lieutenant-Colonel R. B. Charteris, Mr. R. Millin, Sir N. T. Everard and Mr. J. Craigie. Mr. Millin's record was one first, one second, a reserve, a very highly commended and a highly commended. Colonel Charteris retained the breed Challenge Cup and took three firsts, three seconds, two thirds and two reserves. Sir N. T. Everard carried off one first, one second and a very highly commended, while a third and a reserve went to Mr. Craigie's exhibit.

In Oxford Downs Mr. A. J. Welsdon held a strong hand in strong classes. When the judging had been completed he had captured four firsts, one second, one third and a very highly commended, in addition to the special prize presented by the Oxford Down Breeders' Association. Another well-known exhibitor who did well was Mr. W. Ernest Kilroy, who took one first, two seconds and two thirds; while Mr. Robert Downes's share was one first, one third and a very highly commended. The other exhibitor, Mrs. V. M. Rotheram, came also into "the money" with one second and a very highly commended.

There was a greater openness in Suffolks, which breed had good classes. The most successful exhibitors were Miss Violet Tynte, Mr. J. McG. McCullogh and Mr. H. S. Gill, who between them swept up most of the prizes. Miss Tynte's exhibits carried two firsts, two seconds, one third, two reserves and also the Suffolk Sheep Society's medal for best shearling ram or ram lamb. Mr. McCullogh's record was one first, three seconds, two thirds, one reserve and a very highly commended, and also the Suffolk Sheep Society's medal for best shearling ewe. Mr. H. S. Gill's total was two firsts and one reserve. Other exhibitors to receive ring honours were Mrs. B. Synnott, Mr. R. Brangan and Mr. K. C. Fitzgerald.

SWINE.

A FINE SHOW.

There was a fine show of pigs, all Irish Large White, and the most successful exhibitor was Mr. J. Willington, who gained three firsts, one second, two thirds and a h.c. in keen competition. Mr. E. J. Clarke's exhibits accounted for two firsts, and Mr. V. Corcoran's for two firsts (one in Novice class) and one third. Among the other exhibitors who carried off many honours were Lieutenant-Colonel Loftus Bryan, one first (novices) and a reserve; Mr. D. R. Pack-Beresford (two seconds, one third, and a h.c.); Mr. S. C. Cope (one second and a v.h.c.); Colonel C. M. Gibbon (one second and a h.c.); Geleral R. Browne Clayton (one second); Mr. G. F. de Caen (one third); the Rev. Brother Jarlath Edwards (two reserves); Major W. J. Massy (one reserve), and Sir Otway Cuffe (one reserve). In addition to these, Colonel R. P. Wemyss Quin (one second), and Mr. T. J. Lalor (one third and a reserve) scored in the Novice classes.

SHEEP-DOG TRIALS.

REMARKABLE DISPLAYS.

The public interest taken in the sheep-dog demonstrations was unquestionable. There is no doubt also that they provided a welcome variety in the average programme of a Royal Dublin Society Spring Show. That they will ever rival jumping competitions as a popular attraction is not to be expected; but as something out of the ordinary, something which the towndweller rarely ever can hope to see, it was quite a happy idea to introduce them at Ballsbridge this year.

The first demonstration was given at two o'clock. At that hour the Grand Stand was about one-third full, but by the time the display was in full swing it was filled, and a large crowd generally was around the rails of the jumping enclosure. Some particulars of the dogs and their owner-handlers were broadcasted by Mr. Bohane, who incidentally asked the lookers-on not to disturb the dogs at work by applause, but to wait until the sheep were penned and then they could do as they wished.

Mr. Bagshawe, with his champion sheep-dog Lad, was the first to come on the ground. It would have been interesting to hear the opinion of the bench fancier proper upon Lad, and, per contra, the ideas of fanciers who say that a working dog must show his ability to work before he should be allowed on the show bench. There are these two schools of thought.

About the crowd's admiration for the dog's cleverness there was no doubt. At the Angle—a road end of the enclosure he waited with his master till the sheep, four in number, entered the ground. Then at a sign, a whistle, he was away, not at them, but on their flank to get behind them, and mutely and firmly coaxed or drove them up the centre, all the time under the eye and answering the signals of his handler, who conveyed the instructions by whistling. Then around the big "double bank," next across the course to the "single bank," across the field then towards and round the "gate" jump, up the field then and on to his master.

Here they were divided into two lots of two each, then one was detached from the other, and next all were driven to the pen and put into it. Lad had accomplished his task, and the crowd applauded him and his master.

THE SILENT DOG.

One thing the demonstration had shown the crowd was that the silent dog was the master worker dog; another idea silently thrown out was that the sheep was not the meek animal it is popularly supposed to be, and still another suggestion conveyed was that sheep can run quite swiftly.

The next demonstration drove home the fact that the meek sheep has a will of its own, that it is not necessarily in fear of the dog, and that at a pinch it would take on the latter and possibly enjoy the combat. Furthermore, it showed that the trained dog knows that such an idea is all wrong, and that as far as he is concerned he is not there for fight, but to coax them to do the right thing in the right way.

The dog in this case was the famous Spot, who won the International Championship last year at Criccieth, in Wales. He is owned and handled by Mr. Miller, and Goodness knows how many prizes he has won at such trials. Anyway, the public can see now at Ballsbridge two master sheep-dogs in Lad and Spot, and, if there was a vote, one fancies the majority would go for Spot.

Handsome is as handsome does. Spot may not be a bench beauty, but he is gifted with uncanny cleverness. He thinks, reasons, anticipates; he is a sleuth if ever there was one. Some of the lookers-on believed that he mesmerised the sheep; certainly he established the mastery of mind over them.

His patience was sorely tried with the four he was asked to drive. They did not want to come into the enclosure at all; when there they wanted to break back, and when he raced up to take charge of them they were mostly in mutiny. One in particular, a big hefty sheep, defied him, bowled him over once in one charge, and Spot one fancies sweated not a little before he had them moving kindly up the fairway towards his master. His sleuth-like method was uncanny, as was said before. He was behind them they knew; if they looked back to see they saw him lying down.

The further they went on and looked back he was again lying down, and still the same distance behind them. Did they agree amongst themselves to break round the next jump they found, if they glanced in that direction, the white blaze of his nose peeping round the far end of the obstacle. If they carried on in the right direction, that white face withdrew itself.

Anyway, he fetched them up to his master, and then round the big "double bank." When they cleared it, and when he raced after them to head them now across the field to the "single"—those who know the geography of the Ballsbridge jumps can follow the route easily—they went on strike. One sheep, in particular, wanted fight. Spot did not.

He lay on their flank, sometimes rising slightly, sometimes with the menace of the tireless sleuth—ever urging them to go on. The bellicose sheep now properly enraged suddenly launched out with a buck, and with a peck at his nose, which attack Spot side-stepped. Then they turned and trotted off in the desired direction, and that Spot had been moved was proved by a little incident—he barked. Not loudly, it is true, but in gentle sheep-dog fashion; even his discipline could not forbear the probable remark, "Carry on, you blighters."

WELL MASTERED.

Round the "single" he drove them. There was some sparring of sorts before they went for the "gate," but he had them well mastered by now, and then back he drove them to his master, who was level with the "stonewall" jump. In the dividing in two and singling out of one from the others, the respect in which the sheep held him was manifest. Remember that all the time his methods were those of silent persistence without a trace of forcefulness. On they went towards the pen, and after a little persuasion they entered, and the gate closed on them, Spot's task being completed.

The next demonstration was by Mr. Bagshaw with two dogs, Lad and a novice, which had been in training only a few months. The sheep for this were six in number—fresh sheep, by the way, were used in each demonstration—and were ready to obey any order. Thus Lad and his comrade had no trouble. Anyway, two dogs have much more command of their task than one singly, and it was interesting to watch how their handler or guide's whistle distributed their orders. One only was in action at a time; the other being a distance off, a guiding mark as it were for the sheep on their course. When they had covered the course, and returned to their master with their flock, the latter was divided into two, one dog taking charge of each. When the first had penned his lot he guarded it in the pen till the other had done likewise.

This concluded the first set of demonstrations. At four o'clock they were repeated, this time in torrents of rain, and before a Grand Stand packed with spectators. The programme was similar to that of two hours before. It struck some of the spectators who watched both displays that the dogs the second time were even more clever than before. The sheep mostly were "handfuls," as the saying has it, but as always the tireless persuasion, intelligence, and, let us say, mind of the dog gained its end.

DEPARTMENT'S EXHIBITS.

The Department of Agriculture has many interesting educational exhibits. The Forestry Branch has several plots containing young trees suitable for different soils and positions.

In an open shed nineteen cattle are exhibited for the purpose of showing the advantage of producing early beef for the market, and emphasising the remarkable results in milk yield obtained by proper feeding and the adoption of cow-testing.

In the poultry section examples are shown of poultry houses, constructed according to plans contained in the Department's leaflet on the subject. These houses fulfil all the conditions necessary for intensive poultry-keeping and winter egg production. A breeding pen of white wyandottes is also shown.

The potato section includes samples of seed grown in the Athlone district, where a flourishing seed trade developed last year, 1,300 tons of seed potatoes having been sent away by rail. Seed and table potatoes grown in Donegal are also shown.

Horticulture is divided into two sections—one devoted to vegetables and the other to flowers and shrubs. The pruning of fruit trees and bush fruits is illustrated by actual specimens.

Specimens of sugar beets are displayed, showing desirable roots and those which are "forked" and otherwise unsuitable. The process of "crowning" is demonstrated, and growing plants are shown at the stage when suitable for thinning. The different grades of sugar produced are also shown. Manures, feeding stuffs, and their relative values and prices are also explained.

The diseases which attack garden and farm plants and fruit trees are dealt with. Fungus on fruit trees is shown, as well as microscopic views of apple scab; and ailments of potatoes, such as blight, leaf-roll, and mosaic, and the methods of combating them, are illustrated.

The Technical Instruction Branch of the Education Department have interesting exhibits, including specimens of joinery, cabinet-making, and woodwork executed by teachers in training under the Department.

The Governor-General was an early visitor to the exhibition, and Mr. Hogan, Minister for Lands and Agriculture also visited the exhibition.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

The Industrial Exhibition at the Show is a splendid one, and is a striking tribute to the energy and initiative of the Royal Dublin Society. The number of exhibitors is 200—the same as last year. Only three or four intending exhibitors were absent owing to the strike in Great Britain. The display attracted the attention of numerous visitors during the day. Some of the latest types of machinery were seen in motion, and Irish manufactured machinery and agricultural implements were strongly represented.

Messrs. Smith and Pearson, the well-known Dublin engineering firm, have just completed a large factory for Messrs. Donnelly and Co., bacon curers. It is 500 feet long and 150 feet wide, and is built of steel frames, with galvanised iron sides and roof, with patent glazing. This firm have also on hands the erection of six oil dépôts for the Irish-American Oil Company in Cork, Clones, Carrick-on-Shannon, Foynes, Maryborough and Monaghan. The firm have an interesting stand at the Show, with a display of gates, fences and various descriptions of ironwork.

Messrs. Harringtons and Goodlass Wall, Ltd., Shandon Works, Cork, have a very attractive display at the Dublin Permanent Industrial Exhibition, 3 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, this week. They are showing various descriptions of paints, distempers, enamels and varnishes, "Microl" disinfectant, writing inks, brushes, potato blight preventative, etc. The firm have also an attractive stand at Ballsbridge Show grounds.

"Clarendo" for farm stock and "Clarendo" poultry food are some of the well-known articles produced by Messrs. White, Tomkins and Courage, Ltd., Dublin and Belfast. White's jellies, sponge mixtures, table creams, wafer oats, Clipper and Courage peas, flaked rice and tapioca are also in demand. These and other articles are neatly arranged on the firm's stand at the Show.

BUTTER-MAKING COMPETITION.

The butter-making competition held in the working dairy, under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, was followed with close interest. The competition was open only to pupils trained at classes organised by committees of agriculture or rural domestic economy schools. Pupils from the Munster Institute and Ulster Dairy School and prize-winners in previous butter-making competitions were not allowed to compete.

The results were as follow:—

1st, Miss Nicholson, Rural Domestic Economy School, Claremorris; 2nd, Miss Halpenny, R.D.E.S., Swinford; 3rd, Miss Moloney, R.D.E.S., Portumna; 4th, Miss Shannon, Newburn, Wexford; reserved, Miss Ryan, R.D.E.S., Clifden; very highly commended, Miss Curran, Rathcoole, Dublin.

Miss Howard, who adjudicated, said that the butter compared very favourably with any she had judged across the water. It was very good, indeed, except in a few minor points, which she had explained to the pupils. They kept their grades and colours well.

The Local Government Board have sanctioned a loan of £1,500 for building five cottages in Birr rural district.

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN BUOYANT.

SOME BIG RISES.

Following up conclusions arrived at for several days past by the Stock Exchange that the end of the strike was rapidly approaching, the market yesterday opened and closed with extraordinary briskness and buoyancy in leading industrial favourites. Government Loans were quietly firm. The National Loan did not quote. War Loan Fives were all buyers at par x.d., but did not change hands, as more was looked for. Guaranteed 2¾ per cent. Land Stock rose no less than 2 points. India Stocks show declines. There were a couple of weak spots in the Bank market; Bank Stock and Nationals both fell smartly. Provincials were bid for, but were held for a fresh advance. Guinness rose rapidly, but closed well under best point reached. Among Home Rails, Great Southern Ord. rallied a full point, but Pre-Ord. issues closed rather easy. Tramways were well disposed, but practically nothing was done. Dunlop Rubber Ord. passed over 25s. at one time. The demand for Alliance Gas Shares and Debs. was again in the nature of a feature; the shares touched a record price in recent years. Buoyancy was the dominant note in leading Textiles and Tobaccos, and gains of 1s. to 5s. were pretty general. Spinners shared in the advance, despite the reduced earnings and a slight fall in the distribution on the larger capital now to be paid on. Sellers of Burke Debs., Chartered, Thom and Co. Pref. and Irish Times 2nd Pref. were in the market. Shell Transports rose sharply. Courtaulds, especially, were heavily absorbed, and Coats met with persistent bidding.

LONDON EXCITED.

PRICES RAMPANT.

The volume of business put through in the early hours in the London Stock Markets yesterday continued on a rather small scale, but the confident feeling regarding the strike prevalent for the past two days continued in evidence, and prices maintained a firm appearance. Several favourites came in for a fairly brisk business, while investment securities were marked higher on the belief of an impending collapse of the strike. Shortly after one o'clock the official announcement that the strike had been declared off became known. The news was received with great excitement in the House, and almost immediately there was active bidding for practically everything. Gilt-edged securities, which, previous to the announcement of the end of the strike, had hardened, went still higher, and final quotations were substantially better in many instances.

Foreign Government Stocks were also quoted higher practically throughout the list, the market assuming a strong tone. Home Rails were generally quiet and steady at the opening, but, in common with other departments, afternoon dealings were on a much larger scale, and quotations went substantially higher, most of the leading issues closing from 1½ to 2½ points above the overnight levels. Colonial and Foreign Rails were also dealt in on a wider scale, while price changes, although not of such a substantial character as in other sections, were, nevertheless, quite good. Grand Trunk Pacific 4 per cent. Debs. provided the feature, the market rising sharply to 37, or 6 points above the previous closing rate, on the possibility of the Canadian Government doing something for the bondholders. Rubbers and Oils met a good business, and final prices were higher in many directions, while Mining issues were also distinctly firm. Industrials recorded an all-round improvement, many of the increases being of quite a substantial character. Tobaccos, Textiles, and Newspaper issues were the principal features.

LONDON MOVEMENTS.

Gilt-edged securities led the way after the strike collapse, and a number of appreciable improvements were recorded. Consols jumped ⅞ to 54⅞, while Funding Loan at 85⅞ were also ⅞ to the good. Among War Loans, the Fives, after touching 100¼ at one time, settled down around 100, the final figure showing a further gain of ⅛ on the day. The Fours were also ⅛ to the good, while the 4½ spurted to 94, or ⅞ better. 3½ p.c. Conversion Loan went up smartly to 74¾, or ⅝ harder, but in other directions former quotations were repeated.

A firm tone ruled in Foreign Government stocks. French Fives closed ⅛ higher at 11, but the Fours at 9½ were without material change. German Sevens gained ¼ on the day, while Peruvian Corporation Pref. continued strong the quotation rising a further point to 42. Japanese 6 p.c. (1924) at 94 were ½ higher, and Portuguese Threes at 33 were also ½ to the good. Brazil 4 p.c. (1889) and the 5 p.c. Funding (1914) were ½ and ¼ higher, respectively, while Argentines 4 p.c. Rescissions at 79½ and Czecho-Slovakia Bonds at 103½ were both ¼ better. Chinese 5 p.c. (1896), on the other hand, dropped ½ to 93, but the 4½ p.c. (1898) and the 5 p.c. (1912) both closed ¼ up. Turkish Unified eased a trifle after their rally of the previous day, and were finally ¼ lower at 14¾.

BRITISH RAILS ADVANCE.

Home Rails finished strong, practically all the leading issues being quoted substantially higher. Great Western gained 2¼ points to 87¾ while Midlands at 74¾ were 2 points better. Metropolitan Ord. at 65¼ and Districts at 51¼ were both 1¼ points up, while Southern Def.-Ord. gained a point to 44. Underground Ord. were a firm market, and here an improvement of ⅜ was recorded to 3⅞.

Colonial and Foreign Rails were on the up grade, quotations being marked higher in all directions. Grand Trunk Pacific 4 p.c. Deb. had a sharp rally to 37, which left them 6 points above the overnight level. B.A. and Western closed 2 points to the good, while the Pacific at 81½ and Great Southerns at 91½, respectively, were both a point firmer. Centrals closed ½ better and Cordoba Central put on ½ to 28½, while the 2nd Pref. at 48½ were a full point higher. Entre Rios Ord. were also a point firmer, while Leos gained 2 points to 36½. United of Havana, on the other hand, went back to 67½, or a point easier.

RUBBERS FIRM.

The Rubber share market opened with the usual quiet, confident tone noticeable during the past few days, but on the receipt of the news that the strike had been declared off bidding became general, and quotations were not slow in responding to the increasing demand. Price changes were numerous, and the vast majority of price alterations were in favour of holders. A steady tone ruled in the commodity market, but a better demand was experienced, and quotations for the raw material hardened. Spot to June, also July to December, opened at 1s. 11¼d. per pound, and after touching 2s. both went back a shade to 1s. 11¾d. per pound. In the share market, Anglo-Malay at 38s. 9d. were 1s. 3d. to the good. Anglo-Dutch were a trifle firmer, as were Bertam Consols, while Grand Central put on 7½d. to 49s. 4½d. Eastern Trust were a firm spot at an advance of 1s. 3d., while Highlands closed 1s. 10½d. to the good at 60s. Kuala Lumpur were 1s. 3d. higher at 83s. 9d. Linggi hardened appreciably, the final level of 57s. 6d. being 1s. 3d. to the good. Malacca went forward smartly to 70s., or 2s. 6d. higher, while Malayalam were a shade higher at 45s. 3d. Rubber Trust were again on the up grade, and here an advance of 9d. was recorded to 44s. 6d. Telogoredjo were a firm spot, the closing value of 77s. 6d. being 2s. 6d. to the good, while United Sua Betong at 120s. were 3s. 9d. harder. Allied Sumatra, on the other hand, went back to 21s. 10½d., or 7½d. easier.

TEAS IRREGULAR.

Business continued on a small scale in the Tea share market yesterday, while an irregular tendency characterised dealings. Price movements were not numerous. Amalgamated Estates were a firm spot, and at the close they showed a gain of ⅜ to 39⅜, while Consolidated Tea and Lands at 30⅜ were no less than 1½ points harder. Dimbula Valley went 1s. 3d. up to 72s. 6d. Doom Dooma, on the other hand, eased to 91s. 3d., or 1s. 3d. lower, while Eastern Produce and Ceylon Plant were ⅛ and ⅛ lower respectively.

OIL SHARES STRONG.

Prior to the announcement of the settlement of the strike a good tone had prevailed in the Oil share market, but business had been rather small. Shortly after one o'clock, however, when the news of the end of the dispute reached the City, business received a fresh impetus, and, with numerous buying orders coming, prices went sharply forward. The recognised leaders, not unnaturally, received chief attention in the buying movement, and in these some appreciable improvements were recorded. Royal Dutch advanced to 32⅜, or ⅝ better, while Shells gained ⅛ to 4⅜. Lobitos put on ⅛ on the day's business, and Lagos advanced to 4. Burmah put on ⅛, and Apex Trinidad closed ⅛ to the good at 2⅜. Mexican Eagle were a firmer market, the Ord. closing 4½d. to the good at 21s. 10½d.

INDUSTRIALS VERY STRONG.

The all-round advance in Miscellaneous descriptions was due to "bears" rushing to cover after the general strike had been declared off. There was certainly more doing, but it was not in proportion to the extent of gains shown in prices. All day British-American Tobaccos were a feature of interest, and rose 1s. 3d. to 115s. 3d., while Imperials were a similar amount higher at 100s. 3d. Carreras were very strong at 12¼, or ¾ higher on the day. Swedish Match "B" remained a prominent counter and closed firm at 13¾.

Considerable improvements were disclosed by Newspapers, "Pictorials" and "Mirrors" were about ¼ higher, and Allied Ord. continued to rise at 1⅛. All Electric shares were firmer. With regard to Textiles, Courtaulds remained a centre of interest, but were under the best at 6⅛. Cottons jumped ⅛, and Spinners were harder on the report. Bleachers gained 1s. 9d., and Coats were nearly 2s. higher, while Calicos went over 32s. Motor shares were in request, notably Rolls-Royce, up to 35s., and Humbers up to 43s. Dunlop Rubbers were below the best at 24s. 7½d.

The feature of Breweries was the recovery of 15 points in Watney Combe Defd. to 280. Coal, Iron and Steels were firmer all round. Vickers changed hands up to 7s. 6d., and South Durham finished ⅛ harder. Foodstuffs were quietly firmer. Gramophones were a good deal higher, while Nobels gained another 1s. Schweppes Defd. had a firm appearance. Brunner Monds received support up to 36s. 6d., and B.S.A. improved to 15s.

DUBLIN BUSINESS DONE.

Leading Manufacturing Shares were generally buoyantly disposed. British-American Tobacco rose 1s. 7½d. to 115s., and Imperials 2s to 101s., after opening at 100s. Courtaulds were again particularly strong. The opening prices were 131s. 6d., 131s. 4½d., 131s. 6d., 131s. 9d., but at the later market 135s. to 135s. 6d. was eagerly paid, or a rise of 5s. 7½d. on the day. Shell Transports rose 2s. to 91s., and Mexican Eagle Oils realised 21s. 6d.

LONDON MINING MARKET RISING.

TIN SHARES STRONG.

A generally firm tone characterised the early dealings in the Mining share market yesterday, but the actual business before the announcement of the calling off of the general strike was on a rather quiet scale. After it became known that the T.U.C. had surrendered, business improved materially, and quotations were pushed higher. Paris and the Cape both came in buyers of their specialities, and these were soon substantially firmer. In the Kaffir section, Consolidated Goldfields went ⅛ higher to 1⅛, while "Johnnies" and Randfontein Estates both gained 1s. on the day. South African Townships put on 1s., and Robinson Deep "B" were ⅛ to the good. Rand Mines also finished ⅛ harder. Modder "B" were 1s. 3d. better at 20s. 3d., and Consolidated Main Reef finished 1s. to the good at 14s. Among Diamonds, De Beers Def. improved on Paris support, the final quotation of 14⅜ showing a gain of ⅛. The Pref. were also harder, being ⅛ to the good, while New Jagers at 3⅛ were also ⅛ firmer. In Rhodesians, Chartered at 24s. 4½d. were 4½d. better, while Cam and Motor jumped ⅛ to 2⅛. Tanganyika were a firm market and rose ⅛ to 2⅛, Zambesia Exploring also closed ⅛ higher, while Sherwood Starr registered an increase of ⅛. A strong tone ruled in the Tin share market. The metal hardened appreciably to £275 17s. 6d., or £2 15s. above the overnight quotation. In the share market, Ipoh put on ⅛, as did Kamunting, while Bauchi Ord. and Pref. were 9d. and 1s. 6d. higher, respectively. Tavoy and Tronoh were both ⅛ above the overnight levels, while Siamese finished showing an increase of ⅛. Zinc Corporation jumped 1s. 10½d. to 54s. 4½d., and Broken Hill South at 3⅜ were ⅛ higher. Coppers, apart from Tintos, which gained a point to 37⅜, were quiet. Mexico Mines of El Oro went ⅛ to the good. San Francisco and Santa Gertrudis were both 9d. harder. Mining Corporation of Canada, Mysore, and Burma Corporation were all a trifle higher on the day's business. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS COMFORTABLE.

RISE IN NEW YORK EXCHANGE.

In Lombard street money was quietly usable throughout the day, but the supply of loanable funds was sufficient to meet all requirements, while the small sum due to the Bank of England was paid off. For both the renewal of old daily loans and fresh overnight advances 4-4½ p.c. was the general charge, while the clearing banks adhered to 4 p.c. for renewals up to a week. The discount market was quiet, but rates were slightly lower owing to the influx of gold on Monday. Bank bills of all dates were called 4⅛-4¼, while the hot Treasuries were called 4¼.

Bullion movements comprised £30,000 bars sold. The silver market was harder, the spot price rising ⅛d. to 30⅛d. and forward delivery moved up ⅛d. to 30⅛d. The price of gold was 1½d. better at 84s. 11½d.

The foreign exchange market developed a much firmer appearance on the news of the strike having been declared off. The New York cable rate, in particular, rose to 4.86½, but reacted and closed at 4.86⅛, while French and Belgian francs closed at 154¼ and 154, respectively, after early weakness. The Dutch rate finished at 12.09½, as against 12.08⅞ on Tuesday night, and Spanish pesetas ruled at 33.66, and Swiss 25.15. Norwegian kroner kept steady, and the Italian lire was weak. South American currencies were fairly steady.

CHANCES OF EARLY RESUMPTION.

YORK AND MANCHESTER.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday Night.

The early resumption of racing is now in sight, but it may be some days before a start is made. There are fixtures on Friday and Saturday at Gatwick and Haydock Park, but whether they will be brought off is still a little problematical. The Messrs. Frail who are responsible for the Haydock Meeting state that it is improbable that racing will take place there this week.

It is likely that the Stewards of the Jockey Club will be in consultation to-morrow, and that they may give a lead in the matter. Even should they decide to leave matters to the discretion of the local executives, the hands of the latter will be rather tied. It cannot be expected that transport facilities will be completely normal again for some time to come, and that difficulty will attend the transport of horses to and from meetings.

The important York fixture is due to begin on Monday next, and there is no reason to believe that this will be interfered with. It might be found possible to restart at Gatwick, but even if this were done it would necessarily be a makeshift affair.

After York, the next event of outstanding interest will be the Manchester Cup, to be run for on the 28th of this month. Manchester often suffers from coming in the week before the Derby or being sandwiched in between Epsom and Ascot. This time it is very likely that there will be a rush to make up for lost opportunities, and that runners there will be more numerous than they have been at the Summer Meeting at Castle Irwell for years. Some of the entries for the Cup may be dead for all I know, and it is on the assumption that they are alive that I am considering their prospects.

Although Cloudbank has put up some of his best performances on this course, he may not be able to give the weight away here to some of the others, as we shall in all probability get running here the cream of what should have been the field for last Saturday's Kempton Park "Jubilee." Zambo is one of these, and the second in last year's St. Leger is set to give 5lb. and a year to last year's winner, Winalot. When last heard of, Mr. Joe Shepherd's horse was very well, and his trainer was preparing him with a special eye to securing this race again for his Lancashire owner. If Zambo has retained his form of last year he would be well in the picture. He has to give Bucellas 5lb., and at even weights last season he beat him easily by three-parts of a length in the Great Yorkshire Stakes. I cannot in any circumstances see Bucellas winning a race on this course in first-class company, for he has not the speed.

A DISAPPOINTING COLT.

I believe that at Manton it was a good deal hoped that Cross Bow would have won the "Jubilee." This was the most disappointing of all the classic colts of last season, and probably it took him some time to recover from being hurried in his preparation, rather against the wishes of his trainer, to take part in the Derby after Picaroon went wrong. He was undoubtedly a good colt the day he won the Newmarket Stakes last year, but although he won two races subsequently he never reproduced that form again. At Manchester he meets Pons Asinorum on level terms, and I think that Cross Bow's performance in the Newmarket Stakes was better than anything that Pons Asinorum has ever done. The Irish colt was to have run for the Jubilee, and he had been showing such good form at home that the stable would probably have supported him well for that event had it been run.

I thought that, considering how backward Spelthorne was when he ran for the City and Suburban, he did well enough to show that he has retained his form. He was seventh in the St. Leger, for which Zambo was second, and the latter now allows 9lb. At a mile and a half in the St. Leger Spelthorne was going as well as anything. Just previously at York he had beaten Picaroon, but the Manton colt was only just beginning to find himself again then, and he decisively reversed the running in the St. Leger. In his last four races Rufus O'Malley was only beaten once, and that was by Picaroon, which was no disgrace. At Derby he beat Sparus a head at 5lb., and here the handicapper has put him 1lb. only below Spelthorne, which may be rating him too high over this distance of ground.

The name of Naldera reappears here, and the mile and a half may be her best distance. She has run well at a mile and a mile and a quarter and badly at two miles and a quarter this season; so she must be given a chance. Vermilion Pencil also failed at Chester, and there is nothing striking below him in the handicap. This is a race which will, in all probability, be won by one of those at the top of the handicap, and Zambo, Winalot and Cross Bow seem the most likely trio at present.

GALTEE MORE.

PROSPECTS OF RACING.

We are informed by Messrs. Weatherby that a meeting of the Stewards of the Jockey Club will be held this morning, and a statement may then be issued with regard to the resumption of racing. The meetings listed for the week and are Gatwick and Haydock Park, each of which was to have opened to-morrow.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Silpho pulled up sore after running at Mullingar on Monday, and will now be given a rest for some time.

Mr. S. H. Dennis rode three winners at Dundalk yesterday and two at Naas the previous day.

W. Redmond, who met with an accident at Naas on Tuesday, showed improvement yesterday, and an X-ray examination showed that he is not in danger.

The winning of two races at Dundalk yesterday brought the Greenmount, Clonsilla, stable's total of winners for the season to thirty.

DUNDALK.

GREENMOUNT'S 30TH WINNER.

AMATEUR RIDER'S SUCCESSES.

The opening day of the Dundalk meeting, though interfered with to an extent by unfavourable weather in the morning hours, attracted a very fair attendance. The rain luckily did not continue for any time, and one or two slight showers later did not cause much inconvenience. The executive, always alive to the interests of their patrons, arranged on this occasion for a special train from Kildare to connect with the Great Northern train at Amiens street, and this was a facility much appreciated by racegoers from the Curragh district. Fields were of sufficient strength to make for interesting racing, and the appearance of such horses as Explanation, Fair Richard and Mischievous added to the attractiveness of the card.

The Greenmount stable continued its series of successes by adding two further with Explanation and Fair Richard, and as a result the total of wins to the credit of the establishment has now reached thirty, a rather remarkable record for such an early period of the season. It was generally anticipated that Bachelor's Heir, in receipt of 28lbs., would seriously trouble Explanation, but Mr. Lowry's horse, after galloping strongly for about a mile, cut up in inglorious fashion, and Explanation had to contend with Oliver's Mint, whom he readily disposed of. Fair Richard impressed very much by the manner in which he won the Dundalgan Steeplechase. A particularly quick jumper, he gained lengths on Xtoy at every fence, and striding away from the latter after the first mile, his victory was never in doubt.

The six runners for the Exchange Plate provided a very attractive contest, and with a quarter of a mile to go it was any horse's race. Rakes of Mallow, who had been in the lead after the first couple of furlongs, held his position well, despite the many challenges thrown out, and finally he held Chicane off to win by a neck. The Macardle Memorial Cup, a trophy perpetuated in memory of the late Sir Thomas Macardle, who, up to the time of his death, was chairman of the Race Company, was run for for the first time, and was won by Mr. T. O'Roarke's Don Sancho, who beat a better favourite in Impudent Barney in easy style. The winner was ridden by Mr. S. H. Dennis, who also steered Explanation and Fair Richard, and the previous day at Naas had a couple of winning rides.

Millbank proved an unworthy favourite for the Clermont Plate, and was out of the reckoning a good way from home. Fairanger, ridden by Joe Harty, was always a source of trouble to Millbank in the early stages, and getting her mastery before the straight was reached, then went on to stall off Crafty Scot and Boiled Egg in turn. Mischievous was not asked a big question to win the Stewards' Plate, and though Rosmeen held on to him for a long way, Mr. Prince's horse ultimately won in comfortable style. Details:—

POINT-TO-POINT.

WARNER'S CROSS RACES.

Under the auspices of the South Union Hunt, Warner's Cross Point-to-Point Races were held yesterday, and some excellent racing was witnessed. A peculiar situation was created in the heavy-weight event, in which there were only three runners. One having already fallen, the other two rose to the last bank together, and came bad purlers. Lombard, who was on Fighting Bird, was soon in the saddle again, while Uncle Mike ran on towards the winning post. He was caught on the way by Mr. Frank O'Brien, who mounted and passed the winning post a short distance in front of Fighting Bird. The local Stewards have referred the matter to the National Hunt Stewards for their decision. Okapi, a son of Flying Orb, fell in the Light-Weight Race and broke his neck.

CRICKET.

J. M. GREGORY'S RAPID SCORING.

BIG SURREY TOTAL.

MR. A. W. CARR TO LEAD ENGLAND.

The Australians occupied the wicket all day at Southampton and compiled 364 for nine wickets. Half the side were dismissed by Hampshire for 183, but the later batsmen proved successful, and then Gregory, indulging in some big hitting, entirely changed the aspect of the score. Six wickets were down for 206 when he came in. Forceful from the start, he increased his rate of scoring the longer he was at the wicket. For instance, he took 22 off one over from Gross to reach his 100, which he scored in eighty minutes. Altogether, he has hit three 6's and nineteen 4's. Before Gregory's aggressive cricket the best batting came from Taylor, who drove admirably to score 73 in a hundred minutes. One of the features of the day's cricket was some fine bowling by Kennedy, who bore a very big share of the attack. At one period he took three wickets, Bardsley, Macartney and Collins, in the course of two overs.

After losing five wickets for 105, Somerset recovered so well at Lord's that their total reached 284 for nine wickets. Steady play by Young and spirited hitting by some of the later batsmen, particularly Hunt, brought this about. Young, going in first with MacBryan batted stylishly while helping to score 65 in eighty minutes, and was seventh out at 213. He occupied the wicket for three hours and forty minutes for his century, well-timed cutting bringing him most of his runs.

HOBBS' FIRST CENTURY.

In less than five hours at the Oval, Surrey scored 426 for eight wickets, a storm stopping play at six o'clock. Hobbs was missed when 15 and 78 in making his first hundred of the season, and the 130th of his career. He hit a 5 and eleven 4's. Sandham helped him put together 189 for the opening partnership in two hours and a quarter. Shepherd, missed when 8, and Ducat added 32, and Fender and Ducat, in another stand of forty minutes that realised 78, showed great freedom. Ducat, in his first match of the season, hit thirteen 4's in a splendid 97.

Rain curtailed play at Hinckley to three and a half hours, but the cricket was interesting, on a wicket which favoured the bowlers. Wyatt, Quaife and Kilner forced the pace, the latter obtaining three delightful drives for 6. The fielding was good, and Skelding took four wickets for 26.

At Trent Bridge, Essex were weakly represented, and had all the worst of the day's play. Gunn and Whysall scored 155 in a hundred minutes without being separated.

A series of heavy showers at Worcester rendered cricket quite impossible, and at Cardiff the match between Glamorgan and Lancashire was restricted to a single over, from which the home side scored one run.

ENGLAND'S CAPTAIN

It is officially announced by Mr. P. F. Warner, the Chairman of the Test Match Selection Committee, that Mr. A. W. Carr, the Notts captain, has been appointed Captain of England in the Test matches against Australia.

ASSOCIATION.

SHELBOURNE BEAT ARDS.

The first visit of Ards to Shelbourne, following on those of Belfast Celtic and the Irish League team, will, it is to be hoped, mark a further advance towards settling the differences between the governing bodies of the two Associations. The heavy rain of the afternoon spoiled the attendance, still Shelbourne Park was fairly well filled. The rain had cleared off, but the ground played deep. Both sides were at full strength. The visitors hardly played up to their reputation, and were so much over-played in the opening period that the Free State champions held a 4 goals' lead after thirty minutes' play. There was little understanding between the Northern forwards, whose passing was seldom well executed. The half-backs were a poor line, and seldom held the opposing attack, while they were of little assistance to their forwards. In the opening ten minutes both Beattie and Keating did well at full back, but they were easily beaten later, and did not give McMullen much help in goal. Before the interval the visitors were seen to better advantage, but this was more the result of Shelbourne slackening off than any improvement on the part of the Ards' combination. In the closing period the Northerners opened out their game to better advantage; still, though the forwards worked manfully to reduce the Shelbourne lead, they were poorly supported by the middle line, of whom Magee was the only one to play with any confidence, the wing half-backs giving a poor exhibition.

Ards started briskly, but were well held, and Shelbourne combining effectively kept them on the defence. Watters opened the scoring after ten minutes from a pass from the right, but he was in an offside position. He added the second inside a few minutes, and followed quickly with another. At this stage the Ards' backs were outplayed completely, and before many more minutes Wilson scored the fourth goal, giving the home side a commanding lead, after thirty minutes' play. Subsequently Parker and McGuire had opportunities of reducing the arrears, but they finished badly. Early in the second half Ards had a succession of corner kicks, but failed to penetrate the Shelbourne defence, the best effort being when Parker headed the ball into Walshe's hands. They had chances of scoring, but could not avail themselves of them. Before the finish Shelbourne scored again, McMillan beating McMullan with a fine drive. Result:—

Shelbourne ... 5
Ards ... 0

Teams:—
Shelbourne—Walsh; Daly, Russell; Foley, Harris, Kenny; Wilson, Moore, Watters, McMillan, Kendrick.
Ards—McMullen; Beattie, Keating; Gamble, Magee, Kinsler; Bothwell, Patten, Parker, McGuire, Leeman.
Referee—Mr. Connor.

GOLF.

THE IRISH "CLOSE."

FOUR DUBLIN ASPIRANTS.

SMALLEST ENTRY ON RECORD.

The draw for the Irish native championship, which was issued last night by the Hon. Secretary of the Golfing Union of Ireland, proves that the rumours which had been in circulation in golfing circles for the last ten days were justified.

These rumours were to the effect that when the draw appeared it would probably be found that few of our leading golfers had entered; that the championship would fizzle out into a commonplace tournament; and that, as a result, the Golfing Union of Ireland would be obliged to seriously consider the advisability or otherwise of retaining the event in the list of fixtures.

A few years ago—in 1922—when the championship was played at Portrush, and when the entry was a much bigger one than this year, officials of the Union expressed the opinion that unless Irish golfers displayed a keener interest in the event it would be futile to go on with it. An improvement manifested itself in the three following years; but now the entry has dropped to 35, the smallest on record, and the climax has seemingly been reached.

The success of a golf championship does not depend merely on the numerical strength of the entry, but the draw will be scanned in vain for the names of more than half a dozen of our front rank golfers. Major Hezlet and Dr. MacCormack have preferred to take their changes in the Amateur Championship; Ector Munn is an absentee, and so also are E. F. Spiller, Alfred Lowe, Joseph Gorry, and many others whose presence at Portrush would have invested the championship with a good deal of interest.

A remarkable feature of the draw is the apparent indifference of the North of Ireland golfer towards the championship, though it is to be played for in the North. The club on whose links the title will be fought for will be represented by a bare half-dozen of its members, and of these three are the brothers McConnell, while the entries from Royal Co. Down number but a couple—D. Wilson Smyth and D. H. MacLeay. Castlerock sends forward five, and another Northern Club, Malone, a trio; but the Cork (Little Island) Club has four, which, for a club in the extreme South, is very good, indeed.

The Metropolitan clubs are also very sparsely represented, the only aspirants from Dublin are Michael Crowley (Sutton), Captain Hames (Hermitage), E. D. MacCormack (Grange), and Desmond J. Collins (Rathfarnham).

The extent of the support extended to the championship is reflected in the following table:—

Royal Portrush	6	Portstewart	1
Castlerock	5	Omagh	1
Cork (Little Island)	4	Sutton	1
Malone	3	Hermitage	1
Royal Co. Down	2	Grange	1
Ormeau	2	Rathfarnham	1
Cliftonville	2	Co. Sligo	1
Balmoral	1	Athlone	1
Knock	1	Dundalk	1

Three matches in the first round will be played at 2.30 next Monday, and the second and third rounds on Tuesday. The draw is:—

FIRST ROUND.

James Stevenson (Castlerock) v. D. Wilson Smyth (Royal County Down).
R. W. Barnett (Ormeau) v. M. Crowley (Sutton).

AMERICANS AT WALTON HEATH.

The American Walker Cup players have lost no time in preparing for the match. They only arrived in England on Tuesday, and yesterday seven of the eight players, together with other challengers for the Amateur Championship, were practising at Walton Heath. Play was of an informal nature, and there were no serious matches. The most interesting display was that of "Bobby" Jones. He and Francis Ouimet engaged in a match with Ronald Mackenzie, another Walker Cup player, and F. Macleod, the American professional. It was a four-ball game, and, though Macleod and Mackenzie won on the last green, "Bobby" Jones was round in 74, with a 7 at the 18th. Jesse Sweetser and Watts Gunn were beaten by Jesse Guilford and the English internationalist, E. Noel Layton, by 2 and 1. Robert Gardner and Robert Harris, the British Amateur champion, played James Braid and W. C. Fownes. The latter pair won on the last green, but Gardner and Harris made a wonderful recovery, after being 5 down at the sixth.
